President Details Anti-Inflation Plan

Board to Buy More Land At New High School Site

By TIM SCHUSTER

KINGSTON In voting 6-2 to proceed with condemnation on three Lake Katrine properties Tuesday the Kingston Board of Education cited its intention to take "all steps necessary" to accomplish the building of a new high school on that site.

recommended by our attorney in executive session on Thursday, and to reconsider the tabled personnel motion presented at that same meeting," said the release.

Supreme Court Justice George L. Cobb today ruled, in effect, that Kingston Board of Education President Joseph Feraca may remain on the school board until his appeal of a State Education Department order that he resign from the board is processed.

Department in mid-September agreed that the appeal will be submitted to the March term of the Appellate Division in Albany.

At a meeting in Judge Cobb's chambers today, Assistant Attorney General Lawrence Doolittle said he had no objections to the stay, provided the appeal was quickly processed.

The NAACP has contended all along that Feraca, who is a Kingston Police Department detective, cannot legally serve on both the police department and the school board.

State Commission Summons Martin, Savago, Snyder

NEW YORK — Citing "serious problems" relating to the administration of the Ulster County Jail, the New York State Commission of Correction, which met Tuesday in New York City, has decided to summon Sheriff William B. Martin, County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, and Legislature Sheriff's Committee Chairman Clifford W. Snyder to the Commission at its next meeting, which is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 15, at the Ulster County Jail.

The Commission's administrative unit at the Ulster County Jail, which began Sept. 4, was reportedly "much more focused on whether those early in depth" than a March investigation into "unusual incidents" followed at the jail (an escape, fires and a drug smuggling incident) about what action the Commission may take following the Nov. 12 meeting.

Commission administrator Morten Van Hoesen said to the commissioners that the jail situation was a "priority" at the jail (an escape, fires and a drug smuggling incident) about what action the Commission may take following the Nov. 12 meeting.

Van Hoesen's statement concluded that the meeting will be held Nov. 12. The Commission for discussion of these problems, Van Hoesen continued.

"Therefore, they will be requested to appear before the Commission at its next regular meeting," Van Hoesen said.

Van Hoesen's statement also pointed out that the Commission's administrative unit at the Ulster County Jail, which began Sept. 4, was reportedly "much more focused on whether those early in depth" than a March investigation into "unusual incidents" followed at the jail (an escape, fires and a drug smuggling incident) about what action the Commission may take following the Nov. 12 meeting.

Ellenville Approves Library Funds

ELLENVILLE — A $30,000 expenditure for the new Joseph Y. Resnick Memorial Library was approved at Tuesday's meeting of the Ellenville Board of Education.

The funds approved Tuesday night are only a portion committed by the school district and represent just part of the cost of construction. The Village of Ellenville and the Town of Wawarsing are also participating in the construction program.

The school district has committed $350,000 to the construction fund. That money will be obtained through the sale of bonds.

A myriad of personnel and business items occupied the rest of Tuesday's meeting. Included was approval of a new contract for district business manager Sol Sashin for the 1974-75 school year. He will be paid $21,500.

In personnel action, Virginia McSweeney was appointed a teacher's aide for the Title 6 Learning Disabilities Program.

Police Arrest Robinson

KINGSTON — Ronald Robinson of 108 Downs Street, president of Project SCORE, was arrested shortly after 12 noon on Tuesday on a charge of violating the city's multiple residency law.

Robinson was arrested by city police at his place of employment in Rosendale. Arraigned before City Judge Hubert A. Richter, who had issued the warrant on Oct. 4, Robinson was released on $100 bail for an appearance in city court on Oct. 15.

The city is charging Robinson and SCORE with building violations on three vacant buildings it owns on West Strand. The city sold the buildings to Larry Nye of West Hurley in May of last year. Nye turned them over to SCORE, a Rondout-based community organization which had hoped to rehabilitate the buildings for homes and businesses for downtown residents.

On Aug. 30, the city gave Robinson 20 (working) days to bring the buildings up to code.

13 substitute teachers and two clerical substitutes were approved for employment; and Charles Milch was hired as school monitor.

The board also appointed a special committee to determine any possible need for a new school building. It was emphasized, however, that the committee's primary goal will be to search for alternatives to any major construction project.

The board approved construction of a steel fire escape at the Reformed Church, a two-story building which houses the district's first grade students.

And, the board voted to purchase certain instruments for the music department: voted to place the cafeteria's potato peeler on the auction block because it isn't used any more; and accepted a cafeteria inspector report by the Ulster County Health Department.

Voting in favor of the resolution were Feraca and board members Ward Todd, Doris Mulvin, James Owens, Evelyn Corsones, and Tom Reynolds.

Voting against were Marianne Darrow and Fred Hofbauer.

Hofbauer gave the following reasons to the Freeman for his opposition: He is opposed to the concept of condemnation per se; he claimed the district does not need the room; he said he is opposed to building "a park" in Lake Katrine at district expense; he forecast a population drop in the district; he said the old high school needs work.

Mrs. Darrow added that the two have tried to ascertain what would become of the old high school building to no avail, and said she could not favor the resolution at least until an overall plan for the district's buildings had been formulated.

Some Congressional Criticism on Surcharge Plan

By DON PHILLIPS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's proposed 5 per cent income tax surcharge was criticized in Congress today for hitting too hard at middle income Americans.

Some representatives and senators said a modified form of surtax on higher income taxpayers would be more acceptable.

But some of the movers and shakers of Congress — the committee chairmen — expressed a surprising willingness to begin working with the President on the economic plan he presented Tuesday afternoon.

Within hours of his speech, some movement already was apparent.

The House Ways and Means Committee led the moves to explore Ford's programs by calling a hearing for today to question Treasury Secretary William Simon about the request for a 5 per cent tax surcharge on families making more than $15,000 a year and individuals making more than $7,500, as well as business tax revisions that could mean $700 million a year to industry.

The chairman of the Appropriations Committee, Rep. George Mahon, R-Tex., introduced a resolution imposing a $300 billion ceiling on budget outlays next year, a proposal similar to Ford's request.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking

Committee, said he would support Ford's plan to pump $3 billion in government funds into mortgage lending if it could be directed toward low and moderate income housing, but he said the program still fell far short of the needs.

There were dissident voices. House Agriculture chairman W.R. Poage, D-Tex., said

Ford's agriculture proposals "indicate that he doesn't know anything about what it takes to produce a crop."

It was evident immediately that Ford's speech would have its greatest impact on tax legislation, which until now had appeared to be dying in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Ford not only proposed his own tax ideas, but endorsed the Ways and Means bill in its entirety.

This endorsement produced the only audible groans during his speech when he said the bill closes "major loopholes." Liberals on the committee say it opens more loopholes than it closes.

QUINTUPLETS — Quintuplets were born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rohrer of Cantonville, Md.—four girls and one boy. The infants ranged in size from two pounds, three ounces to three pounds, nine ounces. They are reported in "remarkably good condition." Two of them can be seen in a nursery at University Hospital in Baltimore, one in the left foreground and another in incubator at right. (UPI Telephoto).

Wilson in Criticizing Mood

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Malcolm Wilson has attacked both President Ford's proposed tax surcharge and his Democratic rival Hugh Carey's congressional record as irritants to the financial woes of inflation-weary Americans.

Wilson also called Ford's plan for the temporary five per cent tax surcharge on middle and upper income Americans "unfair and unjust."

"As far as I'm concerned, I want to reduce taxes," the governor said Tuesday during a campaign swing through suburban Long Island.

Wilson said he would ask his council of economic advisors to study Ford's program and report to him as soon as possible on the impact it would have on New York State.

Rep. Carey, the Democratic

The Economy Proposals at a Glance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here are President Ford's major anti-inflation proposals presented to Congress Tuesday:

Taxes:
A one-year, 5 per cent income tax surcharge on corporations and individuals beginning Jan. 1, 1975. It would affect families with annual incomes over $15,000 and individuals over $7,500.

An increase in the investment credit, a device that makes it profitable for companies to speed up major equipment purchases, from 7 to 10 per cent for most corporations and 4 to 10 per cent for utilities.

Allow corporations tax deductions for dividends they pay on qualified preferred stock.

Food:
Remove production restrictions on peanuts and extra-long staple cotton.

Request authority to allocate fertilizer in order to insure that farmers get the amounts they need.

Energy:
Require rapid conversion of oil and natural gas-burning electric power plants to coal or nuclear fuel as long as public health is not endangered.

Request auto manufacturers to submit to the government a five-year schedule of plans to produce more efficient cars.

Enforce more rigidly the 55 mile an hour speed limit.

Develop production from naval petroleum reserves at Elk Hills, Calif., and Alaska's North Slope.

Kingston LEE'S Carpets
Linoleum & Carpet
Inc.
682 Broadway, Kingston
Open Daily 8-5, Fridays to 9

Increase oil leasing areas off the coasts of Alaska, California and the Eastern Seaboard plus added leasing of geothermal and oil shale areas.

Budget:
Ask Congress to set a $300 billion spending ceiling for the federal budget in the current 1975 fiscal year.

Jobs:
The following two programs would take effect if the nationwide unemployment rate, now 5.8 per cent, averages 6 per cent for three months or more:

—Thirteen weeks of special unemployment benefits for those whose benefits are used up and 26 weeks of benefits for those not covered by unemployment insurance.

—A Community Improvement Corps to create jobs for short-term beautification and environmental projects in high unemployment areas.

Housing:
An additional $3 billion to purchase non-government subsidized mortgages. The extra funds should support an estimated 100,000 new housing starts.

Antitrust:
Increase maximum penalties for antitrust violations from $50,000 to $1 million for corporations and from $50,000 to $100,000 for individuals.

Jobless Will Get First Priority

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In his anti-inflation address, President Ford said the first priority was "helping the casualties" — the jobless, those with low or even middle incomes.

The help he proposed included tax reform, additional unemployment benefits, public service jobs paid out of federal funds, and a Community Improvement Corps to provide additional employment.

"I know that low and middle income Americans have been hardest hit by inflation," Ford told the Congress.

"Their budgets are most vulnerable because a larger part of their income goes for the highly inflated costs of food, fuel and medical care."

The first problem, Ford acknowledged, was providing jobs. In September the unemployment rate was 5.8 per cent and is expected to go higher.

National Employment Assistance Act for when unemployment reaches 6 per cent and when it gets to 6.5 per cent.

Ford's advisors envision the public service employment programs to have two benefits: to provide jobs which could pay an individual up to $7,000 a year, and to provide it in communities where unemployment is greatest — so the already provides $1.6 billion of money can be spent and tax relief to these groups," Ford asked Congress for a hopefully, increase borderline Ford said.

Freeman Readers Write the Editor

The SCORE Situation

Editor, The Freeman:

We, the members of the Rondout Advisory Board, feel it is now time for us to speak out against what we see as the perpetuation of a trend by the Kingston city government and certain all-too-influential members of the private sector to trample with impunity upon the needs and aspirations of the citizens of the Rondout community.

We refer, specifically, to the current offensive being waged against the downtown community self-help organization known as Project SCORE.

Readers of The Freeman will recall an article appearing on the front page of the September 4 issue of the paper proclaiming in bold headline: "SCORE Gets City 14-Day Ultimatum." To the shock and consternation of many people who have supported SCORE in its ideals and efforts to rebuild a part of the Rondout community along the lines deemed necessary by the community people themselves, we were informed that "The city of Kingston has scuttled SCORE"; that if the organization didn't bring its three buildings on the Strand up to code standards in 14 days, the buildings would be taken away. Then, in a subsequent article (September 25; also front page) we read that SCORE was being taken to court to comply with the city order and that the organization's leadership faced possible imprisonment and fines.

It wasn't so much the suddenness of these announcements that caused our shock and concern as the uncharacteristic resoluteness with which the city government had threatened to act. "Uncharacteristic," we say, because we can think of so many other examples of negligence which the city government has either chosen to ignore altogether or challenge only meagerly and forget about the next day.

We wonder why the city government has shown itself so quick in its attempt to resolve the question of SCORE and so slow, for example, to resolve the question of what is to become of the old City Hall, which remains boarded up and "the eyesore atop the hill."

We wonder why the city government is so quick to condemn SCORE and so slow to act upon the many code violations that exist in inhabited dwellings throughout the city; homes that in the winter are often without heat; homes that are fire traps; homes with faulty plumbing and sewers that leak; homes in which many of the Kingston poor struggle to survive. There are many "slums" in the city of Kingston, slums whose absentee landlords the city government has not shown itself to be so anxious to take to court.

We might only ask: What short the shopping center that for years has been promised for "Broadway East"? Oh, the city fathers say, we cannot get the money! Is not lack of money the crime they are charging Project SCORE with?

We wonder why the city government has singled out Project SCORE? Could it be that now that much through the efforts of SCORE, those long-forgotten buildings on the Strand have been designated historical landmarks (a feather in Kingston's cap, considering we are now beginning to celebrate the Bicentennial), as we have, to the support of SCORE.

We are not exactly sure what the answer is, but we call upon the people of Kingston to rally, as we have, to the support of SCORE.

Pro-Bathgate

Editor, The Freeman:

For weeks now I have been reading in our local papers, letters from those opposed to Bathgate and feel strongly that it is time someone speaks out for it. There is little doubt in my mind having read these letters which are almost entirely half-truths that if this matter were carefully scrutinized, the anti-Bathgate leaders would be shocked over the inaccuracies of their statements. For instance, there are some who are concerned about a drought; we may never have another drought but if we do, according to the 1963 Village Engineers Water Study Report and I quote from page 7 of that report, "during summer droughts the latest of which occurred during the summer of 1962, the reservoir level remained constant with no overflow at the spillway. This observation indicates that supply demands plus some leakage at the dam, were met by watershed yield without storage."

Our village is presently using less water than it was in 1962, why? Because many of our larger water users moved out of the village. However the fact remain (1) there will be over 200 permanent jobs available for local people while this project is under construction. (2) There is more than enough water to supply this project and more like it and still have enough left for the village. (3) The revenue from the sale of water and sewage to this project will amount to more than several establishments together in our village are paying in taxes. (4) The anti-Bathgate leaders state they want to save our water for us; well it doesn't take any great reasoning to understand that there is over 800,000 (eight hundred thousand gallons) of water going over the dam every day that cannot be saved but could be sold for profit.

No large concern is going to locate in our village because we don't have the potential or the area to accommodate them. Our taxes are high and it is quite obvious they wouldn't be welcomed by our local merchants anyway. Which leads us to the real reason behind Bathgate opposition. They call themselves "The Concerned Citizens Group" more commonly known as "The Businessmen's Assoc." Where was this group when the new Howard Johnson's was given water rights? Why didn't they speak up then? Could it be because there was no shopping complex being built to create competition for our local businesses? Trustee Hinchey claims there will be a traffic problem if this complex is built. I say to Trustee Hinchey I would much rather fight a small traffic jam here in Saugerties than to travel to Kingston or Albany to shop and get tied up in much heavier traffic. Trustee Hinchey firmly states her opposition to this project while her husband, a candidate for State Assembly, stated on local radio that Ulster County is a deprived area and badly in need of more jobs. Maybe they should get together on this issue.

In conclusion I would like to say, it is my opinion that we need the jobs this project will provide, we need the shopping center, we need the revenue from the sale of services to this project and that is why I am going to vote (YES) in favor of Bathgate on October 22nd. If you want a change for the better you will do the same.

OPEN LETTER

The undersigned, and all people of good will, would like to see America become a harmonious nation. I'm afraid that in this expectation the City of Kingston must bear a grave and moral burden in not trying to show more patience, and possibly giving financial help, to a project such as SCORE, which in my estimation would be something to which Kingston could point with pride when the project was completed. Downtown needs a moral lift more than uptown, but, alas, the City (when it has a chance to provide leadership) apparently thinks otherwise.

Mr. Mayor, what about the molding conditions in the Old City Hall, the leaks in the Common Council room? Why, Mr. Mayor, is it so difficult for you and the Council to decide the fate of that building? It would seem that there are two sets of principles operating here, one for the City and its Old City Hall, and one for SCORE—or is time measured differently for municipal authorities and private groups? Mr. Mayor, when do you show leadership in terms of ideals and principles. To be only a political mayor is not enough, and I hope that the voters of Kingston will remember the contradictions between the decision on SCORE and the indecision on the decaying Old City Hall. Don't the housing codes apply to the latter, too? Why don't you allow the public to see the inside of Old City Hall now?

Besides the written law, there is also a higher moral or ethical law, which even the ancients recognized. The City knows very well that the downtown community from which SCORE sprang is not affluent and is racially the underdog in the melting pot of American Society, according to the Kerner Commission's report on civil disorders. Furthermore, the name, SCORE — Strand Community Organization for the Rehabilitation of the Environment — indicates the very commendable reason for its existence, the desire of local people to rehabilitate and use otherwise delapidated community buildings, rather than to submit to the wrecker's ball and have all decisions made by those outside the immediate community.

It is my view that it behooves the City Fathers to reconsider the implications of their legalistic decision in terms of the human elements involved and the stifling of local initiative. If you haven't done it yet, the Kerner report is mandatory reading.

Sincerely,
HARRY MATZEN

Largest Bank Failure in U.S. History

NEW YORK (UPI) — Franklin National Bank was declared bankrupt by the federal court Tuesday, but six European banks stepped in to bail it out of receivership and promised to honor all deposits. It was the largest bank failure in U.S. history.

The new owners said the bank in the New York area would be open for regular banking business today.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which placed the bank in receivership, said the money of the bank's 620,000 depositors, including 6,000 persons with more than the insured limit of $20,000, would be protected.

And, said Frank Wille, chairman of the FDIC, "all checks written on the Franklin will be honored. The clearance process goes forward as if there was no failure."

An officer for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, which had lent Franklin National $1.7 billion to keep its doors open through the summer, said it was the biggest U.S. bank ever to fail.

Wille told a news conference the failure of the nation's 20th largest bank was not a sign that other major banks would fall under the crunch of inflation.

Repeated in the American banking system," he said.

Alfred Hayes, president of the New York Federal Reserve, blamed Franklin National's loss of $38 million in foreign exchange transactions and "large operating losses" for the bank failure.

In a series of fast-moving steps, Franklin National, which had assets in excess of $3.5 billion before falling into deep financial trouble, was declared insolvent and put into receivership by the Treasury Department's comptroller of the currency.

The FDIC then put the bank up for sale to the highest bidder.

The six European banks, operating as European-American Bank and Trust, paid $1.7 billion for the bank's assets and liabilities, including $125 million as a "purchase premium."

Three New York banks — Manufacturers Hanover, Chemical Bank and First National City Bank — made lower bids for Franklin National.

The fact that Franklin National came under control of foreign bankers is "the chance you take with competitive bidding," Wille said.

The FDIC assumed the $1.7 billion debt of Franklin National to the Federal Reserve through a three-year loan. The FDIC also loaned European-American $100 million to help with take-over operations.

European-American is owned by six large banks in Germany, Holland, France, Austria, Belgium and Great Britain.

Boston Officials Plea for Help

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Mayor Kevin H. White and black leaders have appealed for federal marshals or troops to be sent into Boston to quell racial disorders arising from court-ordered desegregation of city schools.

Thirty-six persons were injured and seven others arrested Tuesday. In one incident several whites were pulled from their cars and roughed up in apparent retaliation for the beating Monday of a black man by whites, officials said.

The pleas for help were made in briefs filed with U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity, who issued the desegregation order June 21, and in a public statement by five black state representatives.

The executive board of the Boston Teachers Union Tuesday night urged city officials to cancel all classes today.

The union said it believed protection could not be guaranteed for pupils and teachers.

School Supt. William Leary said schools would open but he said he would meet with the union to discuss problems.

Tuesday's disorders began at English High School, one of 80 schools ordered integrated, when false fire alarms cleared the building of 1,436 students.

Many black students went to nearby Mission Hill Housing Project in Roxbury and hurled rocks at passing cars. Several whites driving by were dragged from their cars and beaten up, officials said.

A truck driver delivering furniture to a school was slashed at with a sharp instrument which cut his jacket but apparently did not hurt him.

The disorders spread to Orchard Park, which was partially cordoned off by police late in the day, and the Dudley Street area. Police Commissioner Robert diGrazia imposed a ban on all liquor sales.

at least 125 U.S. marshals be assigned to the South Boston section, where white opposition to busing has been strongest and most violent.

In a five-page letter attached to the brief, White said, "The city is unable to maintain both public safety and the implementation of the court's order in this one single area . . ."

The NAACP brief asked Garrity to order White to call in additional manpower from neighboring local police forces, the state police or National Guard.

The legislative Black Caucus, composed of five state representatives, said 125 U.S. marshals would be inadequate and urged Garrity "to spend at least a division of federal troops into Boston to protect black children and implement the integration order."

13-Day Siege Nears an End

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas holding a U.S. woman diplomat and six other hostages in the Venezuelan Consulate neared the end of a 13-day siege today, agreeing to trade their captives for safe passage out of the country.

"Everything's been resolved," Gen. Rafael Guillermo Guzman Acosta, chief of the national police, said Tuesday night. "It's just a question of working out the details."

U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch said the six guerrillas told him they would end their 13-day siege and release the hostages, including American Embassy public affairs officer Barbara Hutchison, in exchange for asylum abroad.

Hurwitch reported the 47-year-old diplomat from Newark, Del., and the other hostages "safe and in good condition."

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the release of the captives — three women and four men — could come "within hours," but U.S. Embassy officials said no developments were expected before daylight.

The Dominican spokesman said the government would provide the six guerrillas with passports and make the necessary arrangements with the country they pick to go into exile.

The spokesman refused to reveal the destination, but the guerrillas previously expressed preferences for Mexico or Peru.

The kidnappers had originally demanded the release of 37 left-wing prisoners and payment of a $1 million ransom, threatening to kill a hostage every two hours if the demands were turned down.

Guerrilla leader Radames Mendez Vargas, shouting his "communiques" to newsmen outside the building, let four deadlines pass, however, without slaying any of the captives.

Police restored lights and water to the consulate Tuesday night after cutting them off the day the building was seized.

The guerrillas of the Jan. 12 Liberation Movement kidnaped Barbara Hutchison, 47, on a Santo Domingo street Sept. 27 and took her to the consulate. They then captured the building, seized six other hostages.

The other captives were Venezuelan Consul Jesus Gregorio and Vice Consul Waldeimar Alvarado, Spanish priest Santiago Fuentes, Dominican secretaries Ambrosina Arce and Dulce Mejia, and a consulate messenger named Peguero.

Five Mutilated Bodies Found

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — The stabbed and mutilated bodies of three young women and two children were discovered Tuesday in their blood splattered apartment.

The murders apparently occurred during the night. A neighbor told police someone knocked at his door after midnight but he did not answer.

A short time later he said he heard someone apparently knocking at the victims' door but he heard no indications of a struggle.

"The three ladies were assaulted criminally and in other ways," said Medical Examiner Feliks Gwozdz. "It looks like a typical sexually oriented situation. It is one of the worst situations I've seen in a long time."

The victims were stabbed to death and cut, apparently with a butcher knife found in the apartment.

Police identified the victims as Laura McLendon, 22; her sister Martha, 24; and their cousin, Linda Small, 19; Laura McLendon's son, Stephen, and Martha McLendon's daughter, Natasha, both 2 years old.

Gwozdz said the women were stripped with their hands bound behind their backs and their mouths gagged with rags and clothing.

The children were clothed and gagged. The contents of the purses of two of the victims were dumped in a kitchen sink, police said.

Amtrak Seeks $84.9 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless the Amtrak system gets an extra $84.9 million, its passenger trains will stop running early next year, the administration says.

In a letter accompanying President Ford's request to Congress for the money, to be added to Amtrak's current $130.3 million annual appropriation, budget director Roy Ash wrote Tuesday:

"Without the requested supplemental appropriation, Amtrak will not be able to continue train operation after February, 1975."

Congressional approval is considered likely because the White House asked for the additional money rather than making it look as if Congress was spending too freely, Congressional sources said. Another Amtrak bill has been approved by a House-Senate conference committee.

It calls for a new Utah-Idaho-Oregon passenger route and requires that top priority in assigning new experimental train routes be given to states whose major population center does not have a passenger train.

For an important new tax exemption, sign here.

Legislation pending in Congress right now could save you hundreds of dollars.

It would help the saver. Anyone with a personal savings account—in a Savings Bank or any other kind of bank or savings association.

This legislation would make it even more attractive than it is now to keep money in a savings account.

If this bill is passed, part of the interest on savings accounts will be tax free. This could mean tax relief for you amounting to hundreds of dollars a year.

Similar legislation affecting state income taxes is expected to be introduced in the New York State Legislature.

These bills need your support.

The Savings Banks of New York State and other thrift institutions are working to convince national and state lawmakers of the merits of these bills. Pointing out how important the passage of this proposed legislation is to savers and saving...and to the solution of today's difficult mortgage problem. But a more convincing voice would be yours. Use it.

Hundreds of thousands of people in New York State alone have already signed petitions in support of this legislative action. Join them.

How this will help the mortgage situation.

It's no secret that right now mortgage money is hard to find. Why? One reason is that inflation and general economic conditions have slowed the normal growth of savings deposits, and savings deposits are by far the greatest source of mortgage funds. Anything that encourages personal savings, like interest that's free of taxes, will help keep money in banks and help make mortgage money available.

Clip, sign and mail the coupon now. It will take you only a few seconds to do the economy a lot of good, and save yourself a lot of money, too.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 9, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency apparently has violated the law in an attempt to cover up an explosive sex-bugging scandal involving two CIA officials.

Now, under the prodding of the National Wiretap Commission, the Justice Department is finally digging into the case.

It was a bizarre affair from the beginning. A suspicious wife feared her CIA husband might be having a homosexual affair with a CIA superior. She hired private detective Donald Uffinger, an ex-police detective, to investigate.

Tape recordings contain dramatic evidence that the detective and his chief assistant, Robert Peters, provided a tiny microtransmitter for the wife to conceal in her home. Thereafter the two private eyes, with the wife listening in, monitored the bug from a neighbor's house and from a parked car, the tapes disclose.

One night, as Uffinger, Peters and the wife were huddled around the radio-monitor in the car, they heard the two CIA officials engaging in what sounded like a compromising act. The eavesdroppers, according to the taped evidence, immediately barged into the house with a camera.

There was a scramble as one of the CIA men lunged at Peter's camera. Uffinger floored the fellow with a punch to the face, and the wife and two private eyes departed triumphantly with the film.

The episode got back to the CIA whose security chief at the time, Howard Osborn, began a secret investigation. The two accused CIA officials, whose names we have agreed to withhold for professional and medical reasons, told us they informed the CIA about the bug.

Under federal law, bugging is a crime, and failure to report the crime is a prison offense. Yet the CIA made no such report, according to the FBI, the Justice Department and the U.S. Attorney, David Hopkins, who has jurisdiction over the case.

The wife, meanwhile, sued for divorce, and the two CIA officials were eased out of their jobs, one through retirement, the other through forced resignation.

For a time it appeared that the CIA coverup had been successful. Even court records of the divorce were mysteriously suppressed, not necessarily by the CIA.

But then detective Uffinger fired his assistant, Peters, and the veil of secrecy began to slip. The disgruntled Peters talked about the case to businessman Richard Bast, formerly Washington's most celebrated private detective, who beat Peters at his own game by bugging the conversation. Because Bast was present at the bugging, it should be pointed out, this was not a similar violation of the law.

Peters told all about the sex-bugging episode. The CIA official's "wife put (the bug) in for . . ." said Peters. "It was my suggestion. He (Uffinger) said okay . . . I told her how to set it up and where to place the equipment."

Bast reported the incident at once to U.S. Attorney Hopkins. This normally would have triggered an in-depth FBI investigation, with massive interviews and affidavits. But FBI agent Charles Anderson satisfied himself with little more than a statement from Peters who, despite the evidence on the tapes, denied he knew anything about the bugging offense. Hopkins and the FBI then dropped the case for lack of evidence.

It may be merely a coincidence, but a key figure in the bugging incident was an FBI informant. We have learned that Uffinger, the private eye, not only had been slipping information to the FBI but had called his FBI contact man, Washington FBI agent Charles Harvey, for advice on the situation.

The case would have been killed if Bast, troubled over the coverup, hadn't taken it to the new federal Wiretap Commission. This is presided over by former Army Adjutant General Ken Hodson, a man of ramrod integrity, who forwarded the case to the Justice Department.

Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen, who wanted no more coverup criticism after the Watergate investigation, has reopened the case. He has ordered Hopkins to conduct a "four-square" investigation into every aspect of the bugging and the CIA coverup.

FOOTNOTE: Uffinger, one of the East Coast's best known private detectives, told us emphatically there was "no truth" in what Peters told Bast on the tape recordings. Peters was "trying to sell himself, blowing smoke," he said.

He insisted that he and Peters had engaged in no illegal activity. The detectives hadn't used a bug but had peeked in the windows to determine the best time to catch the two CIA officials in a compromising situation, said Uffinger. The wife agreed this was how it had happened. Peters didn't return our calls.

An FBI spokesman conceded that the FBI had taken a look at the case earlier and had dropped it. At the time, he said, the FBI had no knowledge of the CIA involvement. Now the FBI is digging in, he said.

FBI agent Anderson didn't return our calls. Agent Harvey conceded only that he knew Uffinger. The CIA declined any comment whatsoever.

DIE-HARD NIXONIST: Richard Nixon has at least one die-hard supporter who remains unimpressed by the evidence that forced the former President to resign to avoid impeachment and conviction.

The loyalist is Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., who wrote to Leon Fassler of Scarsdale, N.Y., "how justified you would be if you got on your knees and thanked Him that is on high for giving us that great man Richard Nixon."

Wallace's Broad Base

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Confounding the hopes of Democratic leaders, Gov. George Wallace is slowly committing himself not to any ephemeral third-party presidential race in 1976 but to a drive for power within the Democratic party centered on 24 presidential primaries.

With the sudden power vacuum created by the "no draft" withdrawal of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the spectre so hideous to the national Democratic party of Wallace rampant in the spring primaries begins to take threatening shape. Only Wallace now has a hard core, dedicated national constituency.

At the least this distorts Democratic primaries across the country. At the worst, it means Wallace may well enter the convention with the largest single bloc of first-ballot votes — largest by far, perhaps.

If so, he would then be a Trojan horse inside the Democratic convention in position to make this demand: make me your vice presidential nominee — or else.

The "or else" is now being plotted by Wallace's top political operatives, headed by Charles Snider — not yet as a certainty but as a contingency. If the party refused to give Wallace the second spot on the ticket (a refusal which today would be assured), Wallace would then walk out and take his place on state ballots as a third-party nominee.

Here enters the politically crucial question of when Wallace would bolt.

If he left the party in anger after the party's December midterm convention in Kansas City, delighted Democratic leaders would be spared Wallace in the primaries and would expect him to drain conservative votes from the Republicans, as in 1968.

But if Wallace bolts in the summer of 1976 after entering the national convention as front-runner following multiple primary triumphs, he could be perceived as a victim of party discrimination. In that case, the Republicans might well be helped in November. So, the Wallace threat is credible.

Moreover, Wallace can wait that long. Wallace planners say a dozen states have cleared legal third-party ballot positions for November 1976. The designated party varies, carrying such labels as American Party, American-Independent Party and Courage Party. There will be many others — perhaps in all 50 states by 1976.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The President and the Press

The relationship of the President to the Press must — if it is to work — remain adversative. If either imputes none but noble motives to the other, the country is indeed lost.

No one — not even the Congress or the courts — is prepared to question publicly the deeds and motives of the Chief Executive. If they did, their motives would be questionable and partisan.

The Press can ask the embarrassing questions in open forums of the President's choosing. The reporters often pitch vicious curves cleverly devised. Most of the time they are as blunt as a rusty ax.

The President, on the other hand, is briefed in detail by his press staff before "TV Time" regarding the questions most likely to be asked. This gives him time to frame a truthful response, a devious answer, or a bland lie.

The White House press corps is an elite group of white-collar animals. Years ago, they used an office adjacent to the big reception room in the west wing with its huge Indian Treaty Table. The membership was select and their duties were routine: to attend the late morning conference held by the President's press secretary; to make notes and ask questions; to lie in wait for distinguished visitors leaving the Presidential presence for interviews.

The membership has grown as the world power of the man in the Oval Office has grown. Newspapers of substance no longer rely on the electronic wizardry of the Associated Press and United Press International. Each has his own man. Affluent newspapers maintain a Washington bureau, with reporters assigned to the White House, other to the halls of the Congress, and still others to the High Court and newsworthy departments such as Defense and State.

Without their vigilance, day and night, and their acerbic questions, the information you buy in your daily newspaper for pennies would be reduced to pleasant publicity releases concocted by the men in power. Good reporters in Washington sniff out and track stories which no government wants to see in print.

That is why the President and the Press must remain adversaries, fencing forever, and sometimes pinking each other. While reporters are researching what they believe to be truth, the government with its hordes of press secretaries is just as busy struggling to mislead reporters.

Many government officials "leak" stories about other officials to favored members of the Press. This leads to cries of "leak" from the injured parties, and denunciations of the Press.

And yet, in the last few press conferences staged by President Richard Nixon, I felt ashamed of my brothers of the Press. It is a duty to ask the Chief Executive the "tough" questions, but the gentlemen of the Press rose from their seats like a lynch mob, shouting and waving their arms in a cacophony of discord and incoherence.

The man they praised in their copy in the summer of 1968 looked like a fox treed by hounds. It was disorderly and disrespectful. One can hardly say they were asking questions — they were flogging the President of the United States.

Franklin Roosevelt held 998 press conferences, many more than any other President. He had confidence. When he was asked an embarrassing question, he tilted his head back, removed the Bakelite holder from his lips, and reverted to wit or an amusing story to subvert the Press.

Truman answered questions in terse sentences. "Yes." "No." "There's nothing to that story, and you know it as well as I." Sometimes he leaked his self-serving stories by inviting a friendly reporter to join him on a morning walk.

Eisenhower feared the Press with good reason. In the old State Department Building, he relied on James Hagerty, his press secretary, to frown down the unfriendlies. Sometimes, the pink-faced President was so nervous that his sentences didn't parse. The general, I feel certain, could face a firing squad with more aplomb.

Lyndon Johnson, an old hand in Senate and House, trusted none of "the sons of bitches." Experience had taught him that, if anyone can get you if you are wrong, and ruin you, it's the Press. John F. Kennedy used Irish blarney to keep the Press in line. He and F.D.R. made reporters laugh.

Nixon, unfortunately, lived a secret life insulated from the Press. He was the first to unleash a Vice President to attack the media. It was as foul a tactic as the press corps leaping from chairs to devour Nixon.

President Ford? Who knows? His open-hearted attitude will last only until the White House press corps yanks the podium from under his elbows . . .

Hinchey Has New Proposal for Property Tax Relief

SAUGERTIES tax off the neck of our middle and lower income taxpayers. A plan for property tax relief for middle and low income householders was offered today by Maurice Hinchey, Democratic-Liberal candidate for the Assembly in the 101st District.

Hinchey said "we've got to get the heels of the property tax off the neck of our middle and lower income taxpayers. And we've got to find relief for those in that group burdened by high rents."

"We can do both of these with the 'circuit breaker', which says that property taxes - or 20 per cent of rent considered as property tax - should not exceed a certain percentage of one's income," Hinchey said.

Explaining, he said that under the plan, the State of New York will reimburse taxpayers, whose income is $15,000 a year or less, for local tax payments in excess of certain percentages of their income. As an example, Hinchey said a person whose income is up to $5,000 a year would have a property tax not exceeding six per cent. If a person's income is between $5,000 and $10,000 his property tax would not be more than eight per cent.

"People whose income is up to $15,000 a year would not pay more than 10 per cent in property taxes, he said.

"The purpose of this plan is to provide many middle and low income families with tax relief by establishing a relationship between their income and their property taxes," according to Hinchey, who said that "at present, the total state-local tax burden in New York State is the highest in the nation - because of excessive reliance on property taxes, especially for schools, where they carry 52 per cent of the load."

"Low and middle income taxpayers are often required to pay a far larger portion of their income for property taxes than are high income taxpayers. This system of taxation is thereby regressive since the local tax burden for the low and middle income taxpayer is often far larger than his state income tax burden," he said.

Hinchey suggests that to relieve the excessive local property tax "we should provide property tax relief by establishing a relationship between one's income and one's property taxes. This concept, that there is indeed a socially just relationship between the two, is now accepted in 24 other states," he revealed.

Hinchey feels New York State can afford this kind of property tax relief "right now" because the state is "sitting on a surplus of at least $300 million. Some of that should be used for property tax relief before the state blows it on things we don't need," Hinchey suggested.

Explaining how the circuit breaker would work the Democratic state committee used as an example, a 65-year-old widow, living in a small town subsisting on a budget of $2,500 a year in social security plus $100 in interest from a savings account. She pays $600 in property taxes on a house whose full valuation is $12,000. Using the formula for computing her fair share, Hinchey took her income of $2,600 and multiplied it by six per cent which gives her a tax of $156 instead of $600 and refunds her $444.

As another example, Hinchey uses a clerical worker whose New York State taxable income is $5,000. His rent is $150 a month - too large a portion of his income for comfort, Hinchey suggests. Under the circuit breaker method, he shouldn't have to pay more than six per cent of his income for property taxes and 20 per cent of his rent is considered as property taxes. Therefore, 20 per cent multiplied by $150 rent multiplied by 12 months amounts to $360 he now pays whereas under the circuit breaker he is only obligated to pay six per cent of his $5,000 income or, $300, allowing him a $60 refund.

Hinchey said his proposal will result in a state rebate to low and middle income taxpayers of about $50 to $70 million.

"It is a reasonable proposal and one the state can well afford," Hinchey said. "It should be regarded as an interim step in an effort to provide full state financing of education costs based on the state income tax."

Hinchey seeks the seat now held by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.)

... AFL-CIO Endorsement

SAUGERTIES recently at the Concord Hotel in Kiamasha Lake. Hinchey, who also has Liberal Party endorsement faces incumbent Republican Assemblyman H. Clark Bell in the Nov. 5 election.

"I am proud," said Hinchey, "to be named along with the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Congressman Hugh Carey of Brooklyn as receiving the endorsement of the AFL-CIO. The Democratic party has always been the friend of the American working man and woman. In the unsettled economic climate of today, when the Republicans seem bent on re-enacting the mistakes of the Hoover era, it is especially important that labor stand firm against the encroachments of those special interest groups seeking to deprive the laborer of his hard won gains in recent years."

Hinchey predicted the New York State voter would cast his ballot this year for bread-and-butter issues.

"The Republicans have had control of this state and must run on their record, which certainly is a dismal one. The New York voter pays the highest taxes of any state in the nation. And right here in Ulster County the working man is receiving the lowest income in the entire mid-Hudson area," he said.

Hinchey concluded the AFL-CIO endorsement was in recognition of the kind of fight he was constantly waging in behalf of the working man and woman and against the powerful special interest groups.

SAUGERTIES Democratic-Liberal candidate for the Assembly Maurice Hinchey, commenting on his Republican opponent Assemblyman H. Clark Bell's "concern about a modern and efficient management approach to town government," said he would "be much more impressed" if Bell showed the same concern for "improving the antiquated structure of the State Legislature."

Hinchey's statement follows on the heels of Bell's recent public hearing at State University at New Paltz before the New York State Legislative Committee on Laws Affecting and voting of committee members in conflict of interest situations.

The Saugerties Democrat recalled that "Bell voted against and helped defeat Assembly Resolution 19 which would have ended 'empty chair' voting; he voted against Assembly Resolution 21 which would have required that all bills passed by both houses be delivered to the governor within five days of final passage; also, Assembly Resolution 22 which would have required the recording and publishing of all votes taken in committee; and Assembly Resolution 29 which would have prohibited service to me it is rather ironic that an assemblyman with such an abysmal record when it comes to voting for reform in the legislative body 'o which he belongs, should be serving as chairman of a committee dedicated to the improvement of local government," Hinchey concluded.

Hinchey seeks the 101st District seat in the Assembly.

The meetings are planned to act as a sounding board in determining the future of the proposed ordinance, according to Francis E. Mulvaney, zoning commission chairman, who said the town will proceed with the plan "if the people are interested, and if they are not, we won't have it."

Dynamite Blast at School As Textbook War Continues

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A dynamite blast was touched off at an elementary school early today in the Upper Kanawha Valley, destroying the entrance, in the latest incident of violence in a crusade against so-called immoral textbooks.

State police also said another elementary school in the valley was firebombed in the third day of a renewed protest against the controversial books.

The Kanawha County sheriff's department said the dynamiting occurred at Wet Branch Elementary School along Cabin Creek.

They said a firebomb was tossed into the Midway Elementary School, on Campbell's Adv. Creek but was extinguished quickly. Police said damage was slight and classes would be held.

Classes were cancelled at the Wet Branch School.

The violence flared during the third day of a renewed several Kanawha and Boone miners refused to work. An estimated 2,100 miners were after a two-week calm. The protest first started shortly after classes began early last month for the fall term. Officials of the United Mine Workers said they would order the men back to work today.

Cloak and Dagger Activities

POUGHKEEPSIE Democratic candidate for Congress in the 25th District, Nicholas B. Angell today urged congressional scrutiny of the CIA, FBI and IRS, called for social security and property tax reforms to aid older citizens and protested a Heritage Hills law suit in Somers in which the name is named.

Angell said that the country must protect itself "against any repetition of tactics used by the Nixon Administration, such as the appropriation by the President of classified information from the Internal Revenue Service to badger political enemies or the use of the Federal Bureau of Investigation technology in the Watergate burglary." Agencies such as CIA, IRS and FBI must not be used as tools for political harassment," Angell said.

"Congress must take an unequivocally strong position on the issues. Otherwise, we will be offered inadequate solutions, such as the current proposals to act on the amendments to restrict clandestine activities of the CIA, except those specifically listed by the President as vital to national security."

Angell said that the country must protect itself "against any repetition of tactics used by the Nixon Administration, such as the appropriation by the President of classified information from the Internal Revenue Service to badger political enemies or the use of the Federal Bureau of Investigation technology in the Watergate burglary." Agencies such as CIA, IRS and FBI must not be used as tools for political harassment," Angell said.

"Congress must take an unequivocally strong position on the issues. Otherwise, we will be offered inadequate solutions, such as the current proposals to act on the amendments to restrict clandestine activities of the CIA, except those specifically listed by the President as vital to national security."

President Ford to enable many more older citizens to keep their homes in the community of which they are a part. Angell said he would also sponsor a special tax relief program for those over 65.

Angell, who seeks the seat now held by Republican Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., also faces Free Libertarian Sanford Cohen in the Nov. 5 election.

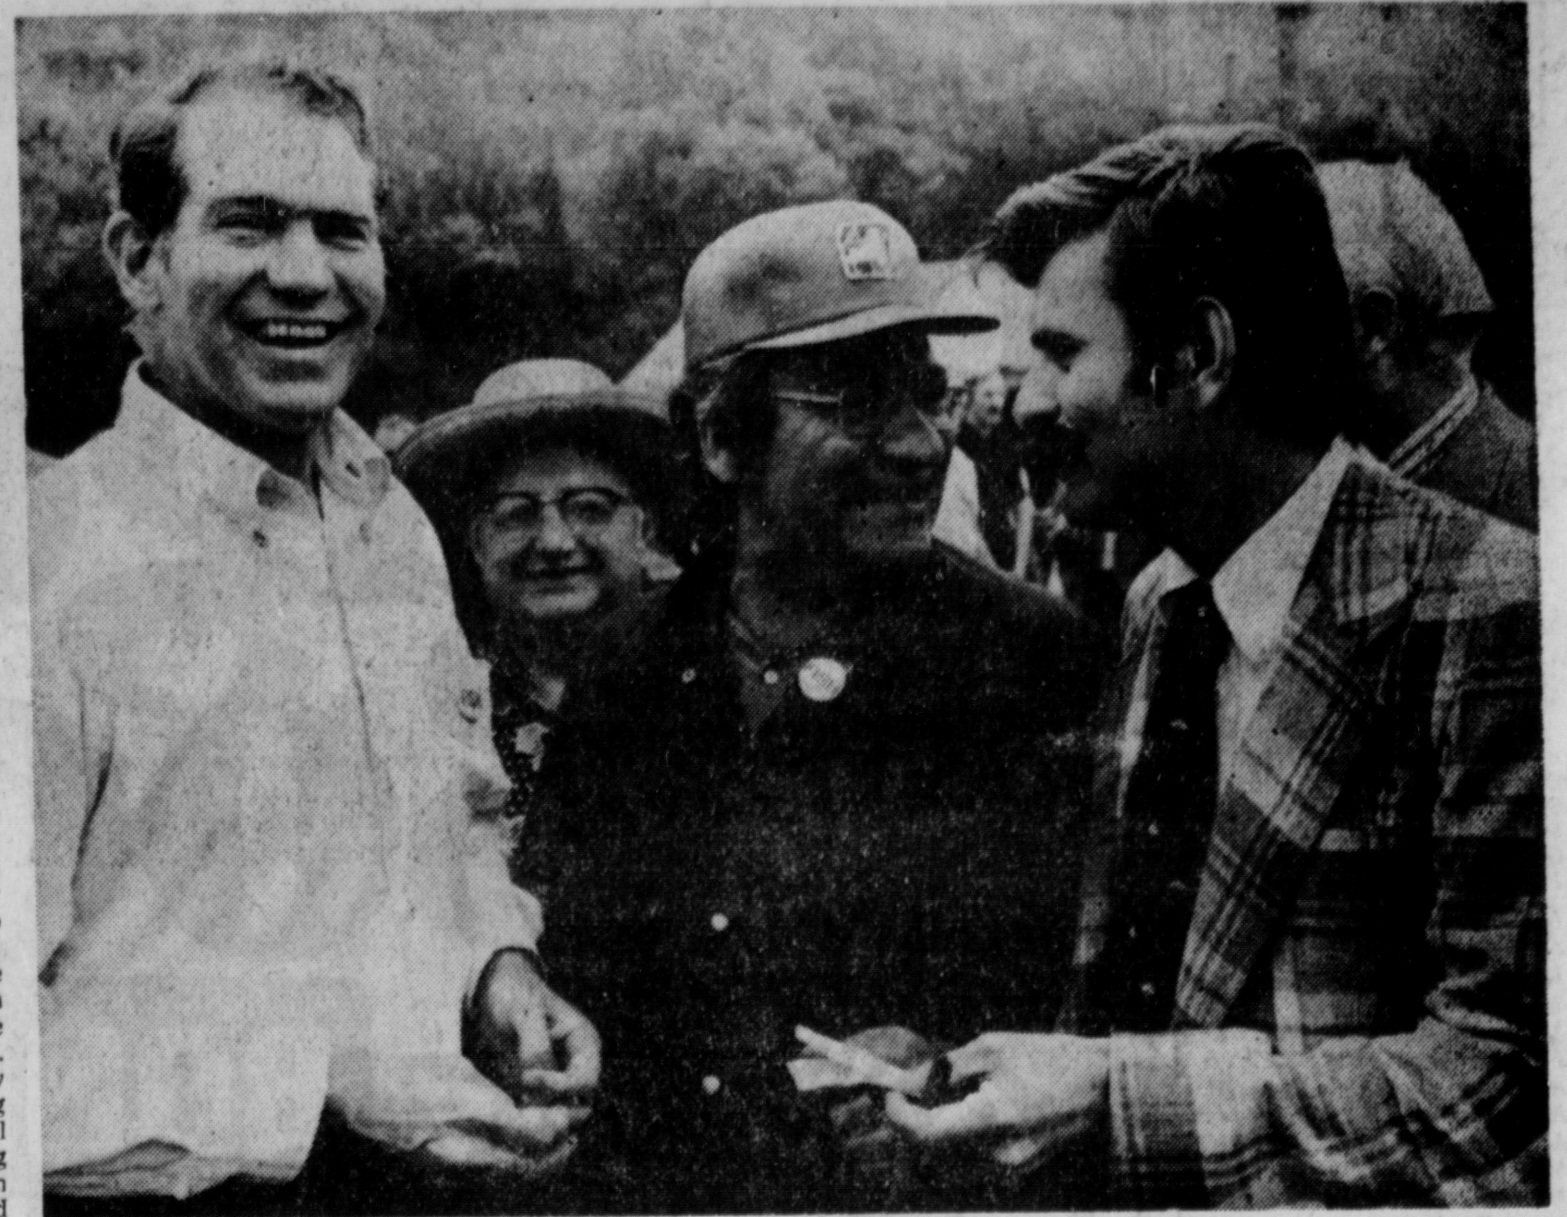

He said he was "absolutely astonished" by the legal summons he received from the Heritage Hills developers "and their attempt to suppress free expression of views on a major community project."

Angell was the only federal candidate among the more than 10 labor leaders, candidates for elective office and reporters who were issued summonses last week by Heritage Hills of Westchester "in an attempt to prevent any further demonstrations on the site of the controversial 3,100-unit condominium in Somers," Angell said. The project is headed by developers, Henry Paparazzo and Curtis McGann.

"Unemployment in the building trades is up as high as 45 per cent in parts of the 25th District," Angell explained.

"I cannot imagine how the heads of the project having by-passed local labor and local supplies, would expect anything else but strenuous objections on such an acutely serious bread and butter issue."

"Developers cannot simply ignore the local economy while they plunder a town for personal profit. This is not the way to develop an orderly, well-planned community," he said.

SMILES PREVAIL—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25) appears happy about it all after presenting check to Louis Labrinos (R), president of the AHEPA, Dutchess County Chapter, for the Cyprus Relief Fund. Also shown are William Sedore, standing next to the congressman and

William Chamuris, AHEPA treasurer. In addition to the donation to assist the Greek Cypriots, Rep. Fish was among those in the House of Representatives who voted to cut off aid to Turkey until Turkish forces are removed from Cyprus.

Cohen Attacks Inflation

POUGHKEEPSIE a Putnam County lawyer, said "Politicians cause unemployment," Sanford Cohen, Free Libertarian candidate for Congress in the 25th District, charged today.

"With galloping inflation and depression threatening our economic future, the rate of unemployment is rising rapidly," Cohen said, and "as usual, unemployment is hitting hardest at the young and minority groups."

Cohen, who seeks to unseat incumbent Republican Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., present economic crisis, and also faces Democratic contender Nicholas B. Angell, bureaucrats are responsible for our rising unemployment.

Minimum wage laws force employers to lay off workers when the going gets tough, because minimum wage laws literally price the young and unskilled workers out of the job market," he said.

"Fish and other power-brokers will do anything popular in order to be reelected. They must take full responsibility for the unemployment which has resulted from their actions. Fish has consistently supported minimum wage legislation which makes it a crime for an employer to pay his workers less than the hourly wage which the government dictates. When profits fall, the employer is not allowed to offer his workers less money in order to keep them from being jobless. He must fire the people that he cannot afford to keep on at minimum wage — or face criminal prosecution," he said.

Cohen said that according to the latest figures from the U.S. Department of Labor, there has recently been a dramatic increase in the jobless rate for young men 20 to 24 years of age. Their unemployment rate rose from 8.1 per cent to 9.3 per cent. Unemployment in poverty areas is 12 per cent higher than in non-poverty areas and Blacks account for only a third of the poverty area population, but fully half of the unemployed workers are Black.

Cohen said

Therefore he concludes that "Congressman Fish, in his efforts to receive union support, has consistently supported higher minimum wage laws which hurt business and victimize the poor, the young and the unskilled."

Liddy Connection Made

POUGHKEEPSIE both Fish and Ford, after Sanford Cohen, the Free Libertarian Party candidate for Congress from the 25th District, has, in a recently-released statement, made the connection between convicted Watergate burglar G. Gordon Liddy and incumbent Republican Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., whom Cohen is trying to unseat, a campaign issue.

Cohen relies for his facts on a year-old article in the Washington (D.C.) Star-News. The article says: then Vice Presidential designate Gerald R. Ford told reporters that Liddy got his job as assistant district attorney in Dutchess County in 1966 through Fish, after agreeing to stay out of that year's election as a Conservative candidate, and a position with the U.S. Treasury Department, with the aid of Angell.

"It is clear to me," said Cohen, "that Representative Fish has been lying all along about his deals with Gordon Liddy."

"It is illegal for a Congressional candidate to offer future jobs in return for help in getting elected to office," Cohen stated.

Cohen said Fish was downplaying his part in sending Liddy to Washington because, "I think Mr. Fish realizes that the voters of the 25th Congressional District would reject a man who has blatantly used his power and authority to dispense government favors for his own benefit."

In addition to Cohen, Fish is also opposed by Democrat Nick

TELEPHONE CAMPAIGN—Mrs. Malcolm Wilson, (L.), wife of the governor is shown in Albany greeting Mrs. Lillian Crosswell of Olive, who has been appointed by Gov. Wilson as director of the Ulster County Home Telephone Campaign in behalf of his election. She will coordinate the activities of volunteers who are making voter identification calls and get out the vote calls from their residences for governor and his running mates.

By Carey County Coordinator

Wilson Campaign Under Attack

KINGSTON Louis M. Klein, Ulster County co-ordinator of the Hugh Carey for Governor, today accused Gov. Wilson of conducting a "shallow campaign, by skirting the real issues, to focus his attention almost exclusively on law and order."

In making his accusation, Klein said, "For the past several weeks I have been listening intently to the messages which Gov. Wilson has been foisting upon the citizens of New York State, both through his advertising and his personal campaigning. To believe him, is to believe that only the issue of law and order is worthy of discussion during the campaign."

"What makes Governor Wilson's campaign platform all the more objectionable, is that his campaign has become a replica of the Nixon-Agnew campaign of 1972. The Nixon reelection campaign focused on the deep commitment of Mr. Nixon and Mr. Agnew to law and order, in a successful attempt to avoid discussion of such other central issues, as the complete failure of their administration during its first support of Carey's candidacy. Unfortunately, the American people came to year," Klein said. "The citizens of New York will not be fooled twice. You cannot shield your ineffectiveness over the past 16 years by hiding behind a single issue. Your advertising claims that you were an influential and important part of the Rockefeller administration. Why then, should people believe that you will accomplish more now than during the past 16 years? What have you done concerning property taxes? Which need attention now? What have you done to reform the criminal justice system? What have you done to cut down on the arrogant power of public utilities? What have you done to improve the economy of New York State? These are issues which need attention now," Klein concluded.

Local Attorney Appointed

KINGSTON Louis M. Klein, Ulster County Co-ordinator of Carey for Governor, today announced the appointment of Martin F. Tully, a prominent local attorney, as chairman of Ulster County Republicans for Carey.

In announcing the appointment Klein said: "I am pleased to announce that Martin F. Tully has agreed to accept an appointment as chairman of Ulster County Republicans For Carey. It will be Tully's responsibility to enlist the efforts of other Republican residents in Ulster County, in support of Carey's candidacy. The acceptance by Mr. Tully, who presently serves as clearly demonstrates the positive reaction Hugh Carey's political persuasion," Klein Rosendale, of this responsibility, candidacy is receiving from concluded.

Lefkowitz Endorsement

NEW YORK CITY has more than a political, more than an academic interest in the reelection of Lefkowitz, Louis J. Lefkowitz has won the endorsement of U.S. Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, who announced the support of the attorney general at a press conference in New York City recently. Sen. Brooke, who served as similar problems. Lefkowitz in attorney general of Massachusetts before his courageous, principled — was an inspiration to me," Sen. Democrat Robert Abrams. Brooke said, adding that "there are few, if any attorney generals in this nation today who have not learned from Lefkowitz and benefitted from his experience and advice." Brooke suggested that New Yorkers should remember that it was Lefkowitz who pioneered consumer protection and chartered similar advances in the civil rights field. Lefkowitz is being opposed by

Association 'Approval'

BINGHAMTON Justice Louis M. Greenblatt, Republican candidate for the New York State Court of Appeals, has been "approved as highly qualified" by the Association of the Bar of New York, it was announced today by the Lawyers for Greenblatt Committee.

Previously, the New York State Bar Association found Judge Greenblatt to be "well qualified", having affirmatively demonstrated pre-eminent qualifications for the performance of the duties of an Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Nov. 5 voters will choose two out of four candidates for two Court of Appeals judgeships.

They are Greenblatt, Democrat Fuchsberg and Harold Stevens Liberal Judge Lawrence H. who is running on the Cooke, Democrat Jacobo Republican line.

State Police Conference Tabs Senator Rolison

POUGHKEEPSIE State Senator Jay P. Rolison (R-Poughkeepsie) has announced he has received the endorsement of the Police Conference of New York State, happy to have received this representing police officers throughout the State of New York. In a letter from Al Sgaglione, president of the Police Conference, the Conference complimented Senator Rolison as being "a champion of our cause." Albany School

Registration is now underway at the Naval Reserve Officers School in Albany. The school presents courses this academic year in military law, oceanography, and human behavior. Classes are held every Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Naval Reserve Center, 780 Washington Avenue, Albany.

These courses are open to officers of all branches of the service and build credit toward retirement while broadening professional knowledge.

Courses are taught this year by Lieutenant Commanders Jerry Spence and Dave Bruno and Lieutenant Junior Grade Peter Margolius. These men are all specialists in the fields in which they are instructing and promise challenging and interesting academic work on the college level.

The school's commanding officer, Commander Ron Neaton, sends out a personal invitation to all interested reserve officers in the capital District to drop in any Thursday to see what the school has to offer.

Ex-Alcoholic Pleased With Farming and His Harvest

HART ISLAND, N.Y. (UPI) — It was potato-picking day at the Phoenix House farm on Hart Island. Head farmer John Feighan stood back, arms akimbo, and said in a heavy Irish brogue that he was well-pleased with his first crop of potatoes, grown from hand-tilled soil.

Feighan — a 55-year-old ex-alcoholic who voluntarily admitted himself to the Phoenix House Drug Rehabilitation program — was chosen head farmer when the five-acre farm was started last April because he had been a farmer for 15 years in Ireland.

Feighan, who expected to harvest no less than three tons of potatoes, said Phoenix Director Jean Scott mentioned the possibility of starting a farm on the island near the Bronx "and I told her I could farm. The land was all torn down and we had to do everything by hand but I was a farmer 15 years in Ireland and it was easy for me."

"We've a good crop and I'm well pleased. As long as I'm on a farm, I'm O.K.," Feighan said, adding that he was also "well-pleased" with his nine-man crew, most of whom had never done farm work before.

"I taught them and I'm still teaching them. At first it was pretty hard but after a couple of months it got easier," he said.

Niceties Not for This Consul

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Italian Vice Consul Riccardo Diloroto does not invoke diplomatic immunity for parking privileges — he takes the bus to work.

It's not that he wouldn't like a place to park his car. It's because Hartford does not bestow that kind of benefit on resident diplomats.

When Diloroto's office was moved from New Haven to Hartford three years ago, he got two parking tickets despite the legend "Foreign Consulate 10" on his license plates.

And he pays taxes on office supplies, which his colleagues do not.

But Diloroto can't dwell too much on the niceties of diplomatic life elsewhere, because his constituency keeps him too busy.

Connecticut has 135,000 Italian-born residents, not to mention tourists and others who come to him for answers to questions concerning their passports, pensions and military service.

"We do the paperwork, and there's lots of it," Diloroto says.

When he came to Hartford in 1971 only a few Connecticut officials knew he existed and while that has not changed radically, "It really doesn't matter. I deal with the people," he said.

He illustrated one problem that arises:

"Tourists — they sometimes get sick over here. So the family gets shook up. You know how much it costs to go to the hospital. Well, these people are insured on the other side so we tell them to pay the bill and get reimbursed later from the federal insurance."

Others come to the United States to retire on pensions from the Italian government. From time to time, there are snags that Diloroto is called on to straighten out.

Then there are young men who are subject to Italian military service up to their 30th birthday and who must register with the consul, who keeps track of them in the United States.

And there are those who need to be advised of American laws, particularly in narcotics cases.

"There's nothing we can do except advise," Diloroto says. Italians are generally aware of the seriousness of narcotics offenses, because their own law in that area is quite strict.

"A minor offense can mean a three-year sentence," he says.

And since the diplomat is accustomed to unsparing red tape, an achievement only an Italian can appreciate because of his homeland's bureaucracy, Diloroto also makes the way somewhat smoother for people going to Italy.

He moonlights working for a travel agency.

Guest Speaker

James Lapak, assistant general director of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, will be the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Men's Club of the Old Dutch Church tonight in Bethany Hall. His topic will be, "Age Is Only a State of Mind: Physical Fitness after 25." The dinner meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will be the first meeting of the 1974-75 season under new officers: Ellis Griffith, president; E. Robert Johnson, vice president; John W. Hill, secretary; and Dewese W. DeWitt, treasurer.

One worker, Ralph Duck, 24, an Alabama native who bears a strong resemblance to evangelist Marjoe Gortner, said he had worked on farms as a boy and likes farm work.

"The hardest part of working on this farm was turning the ground by hand. I was worried at first about potato blight and we didn't have a very good spring. But the crop is all right with what we had to work with. We didn't have any machinery," Duck said.

Another experienced farmer, 27-year-old Hubert Troop of Georgia, sat down on a tree stump and called himself the "department head" of the farm because "hard work doesn't bother me and I'm more aggressive and work faster and harder."

He said he enjoys working on farms because he likes "to feel the sun beaming on me and see the crops coming up and be a part of that."

He said when the farm was started, several residents volunteered to help out but all except nine quit because they thought the farm would not prosper.

"People used to come around and ask 'How does it feel to work on a graveyard?' because the ground was so hard and they didn't believe anything would grow here," he said.

"But I was determined to do this. We started from nothing and we've had good crops."

Troop said he helped Feighan train the inexperienced men, a feeling of accomplishment. "From farm work I've learned a whole lot and I've learned that hard work doesn't bother me. It's been definitely good for me and all our crops turned out well," Johnson said.

Hart Island, on Long Island Sound, previously housed a prison but was donated to Phoenix House by New York City in 1968, except for a portion used to bury the unknown or unclaimed dead in Potter's Field.

Phoenix House converted the former prison into a reincarnated medieval European village. Residents eat at the Palace, live in the Castle, are inducted into the program at the Serfdom and receive medical treatment in the Magic House.

The self-sufficient island not only grows vegetables but also raises goats, geese, ducks, chickens, rabbits and pigs, he says, he still plans to cultivate at least five more acres "by hand again if we have to."

Shop-Rite Opens Its 18th Store

FLORIDA highly successful cooperative Big V Supermarkets, Inc., a group of 200 Shop-Rite Supermarkets, opened its 18th Supermarket in Fishkill, Tuesday. The new 30,000 square foot supermarket is located in the new Dutchess Mall — Route 9 and Interstate 84, in Fishkill, N.Y. and is Big V's fourth Shop-Rite location in the Dutchess County area.

The announcement of the opening was made by William Rosenberg, chairman of the Board of Big V Supermarkets, Inc., 176 North Main Street, Florida. Big V Supermarkets operates its chain of 18 Shop-Rite Supermarkets throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley as an independent member of the Mid-Hudson Valley and Albany areas. Rosenberg added that Big V Shop-Rite is the only supermarket chain in Dutchess County to have a totally computerized front-end. The Electronic Store Information System (ESIS) or "electronic front-end", as it is called, links each customer service register with a central, in-store computer, logging simultaneously, information recorded by each register. By pushing a few buttons, each register terminal can get a quick O.K. for customer checks and allows us to offer our customers speed and convenience of the newest "Checkout" system available in today's market. We are most pleased to be part of the growing community of Fishkill, and anxious to bring to the shopping public, Shop Rite's concept of food shopping... the highest quality merchandise, at the lowest possible across-the-board prices". Douglas Mellin of Poughkeepsie, has been named general manager of the new store, assisted by Anthony Germano and Gary Phelps. A Shop-Rite store in the Kingston area is located on Ulster Avenue Mall at Shop Rite Square.

Mays Now in Fishkill

FISHKILL, ceremony attended by Max L. Shulman, president and chairman of Mays, many local officials and opera singer, Patrice Munsel.

It was also watched by thousands of new customers and former customers of Mays who moved into this area from New York City.

At the opening ceremony, Shulman said: "It is an interesting coincidence that the site upon which we stand was used in the American Revolutionary War as the Army's War Supply Depot. Now, almost 200 years later and under vastly different circumstances, we have erected a modernistic supply depot, to service the civilian needs of this great community."

Newburgh and Major Philip Emden of the State Police.

Miss Munsel sang God Bless America, the theme song of Mays founder, the late Joe Weinstein, who loved the anthem with deep affection for his country.

Tribute was paid by Major Shulman to "Bill" Petsey, building project manager and Abe Greenberg, interior design and planning engineer.

The store manager of Mays Fishkill is Sidney Rosenman of Nanuet and Assistant Store Manager is Allan Edelman of Wappingers Falls.

BUICKS ARE IN—Charles Higgins, salesman for Grimaldi Buick-Opel Co. Inc., of 10 Main Street, looks over one of the models in the Buick Century line. The Century, offered in 11 models, is a mid-size car with two-door models having a 112-inch wheelbase while the four-door have a 116-inch wheelbase, all powered by Buick's new V-6 engine. Frank Grimaldi, president of Grimaldi Buick-Opel, reports that Buick's high energy ignition system helps lower the frequency and cost of tune-ups. Other features, he said, include the refreshing Full-Flo power ventilation system and an economical powerplant, Buick's new 3.6 liter V-6 engine. George Jackson is another salesman at Grimaldi's where prospective customers may view all cars of the fine Buick line.

HERE'S HOW IT'S DONE... Paul Fish, manager of Reynolds Metals Company's Upstate New York Recycling Plant in Utica, shows what happens to recycled aluminum cans. First, they're shredded into popcorn-sized nuggets, then remelted into aluminum ingots, and finally re-rolled into aluminum sheets to make new aluminum products. Reynolds mobile recycling van will be at the Kingston Shopping Plaza Oct. 15 and 29 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. to purchase all-aluminum cans and other clean aluminum scrap from ecology-minded citizens. Reynolds pays 15 cents per pound on-the-spot. Many clubs and service organizations use aluminum recycling to raise funds for their own projects. It's a great way to help your community fight litter, help America conserve a precious natural resource, and make a profit too!

Grand Union Fete for Former GM

Monday, Sept. 30, marked the Company. The Northern Region of Grand Union's 102nd Anniversary. The celebration this year is dedicated to Ralph D. Lytle, former vice-president and general manager of the Empire Division and newly appointed vice-president of the Northern Region of the Grand Union Company. The Northern Region of Grand Union is comprised of 199 stores located in North-eastern New York, Western Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire. All areas of media will be tied in with the special sales and promotional activities scheduled for the two week period ending Oct. 12. Managers are committed to business readiness in all departments of store operations — clean stores, full shelves, attractive displays, plenty of specials and of course, friendly service. District managers and store managers who do the best over-all job during this birthday celebration period will be awarded valuable prizes. Joseph J. McCaig, vice-president and general manager of the Empire Division, who has dedicated this anniversary celebration in honor of Lytle, said Grand Union's policy of all-out effort to satisfy customers goes back more than a century. to a grocery clerk in Scranton, Pa., Cyrus D. Jones who used program of development and the name of Grand Union Tea Company in the years following the war, knowing that "grand union" was a name which would inspire confidence. One hundred and two years later, The Grand Union Company — now internationally affiliated, is following a expansion aimed at providing consumers with excellent shopping facilities and the most up-dated information programs available. Headquarters for the Empire Division of Grand Union is located in Waterford.

Kaye Sports ... Kramer Is Owner

KINGSTON had a vast background in the sporting field, says his new store offers just about everything in the sporting goods field except skiing, fishing and hunting.

Pete Kramer, who hails from and assistant football coach at Malden-on-Hudson, is the new owner of Kaye Sports and offers a solid line of sporting gear at the uptown store. Kramer took over the business, formerly known as Kaye Sportswear Inc., on Oct. 2 and formally opened his new business two days later.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig was on hand to officially cut the ribbon on opening day.

And Kramer, who himself has State College in New Hampshire and in 1961 was selected as the outstanding athlete in the combined field of soccer and baseball.

In addition to his seven-year tenure as sports coach in Saugerties, Kramer served four years at State University College at New Paltz as the varsity baseball mentor.

Kramer has been associated with the Saugerties School Board, the Saugerties Recreation Commission and as general manager of the American Legion baseball in Saugerties.

Kramer is married to the former Sylvia Weldon, also formerly of New Hampshire. They have three children, two sons and a daughter.

In addition to his new venture in the sporting goods field, Kramer also operates a Thruway Mobil Station at the Ulster Service area in Ruby.

Kramer, in taking over a successful firm that had been in the business for 50 years, says he plans to continue operating the uptown store in the same direction that the former Kaye Sportswear concern one of the major New York State school sporting goods suppliers, covering high schools in more than 25 counties as well as in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Power Authority OKs Nuclear Allocations

NEW YORK CITY
New York State Power Authority (SPA) trustees have tentatively approved allocations of nuclear power from its James A. FitzPatrick Nuclear Plant to the state's seven private utilities, including Central Hudson.

The public hearing on the proposed contracts will be held at 10 Columbus Circle in New York City Nov. 13, at 10 a.m.

The allocations initially will provide 562,000 kilowatts of electricity to customers of the state's utilities. This amount will decrease as allocations are withdrawn to meet SPA Commitments to municipal, rural cooperative, and industrial customers.

The allocations to the individual utilities vary, depending on the size of the customer demand and whether the system's peak use period occurs during winter or summer.

Central Hudson, a winter peaking utility, will receive 36,000 kilowatts during the winter, and 16,000 during the summer.

Loading of nuclear fuel at the FitzPatrick plant is expected late this month. The plant will start to produce electricity after start-up tests.

Murrow Journalism Panel Slated

POUGHKEEPSIE The discussion, open to the public without charge, is entitled "Edward R. Murrow: Uniqueness in Retrospect." Murrow, who died in 1965, made more than 5,000 broadcasts for CBS News, most of them on radio. His career ranged from an eyewitness account of Hitler's seizure of Austria to a commentary on the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy. In 1961 President Kennedy appointed him director of the U.S. Information Agency. In awarding him the Presidents Medal of Freedom three years later, President Johnson said of Murrow: "He has brought to all his endeavors the conviction that truth and personal integrity are the ultimate persuaders of men and nations."

Special Notices Are Urged

ALBANY "The City of New York and the federal government publish a record periodically to inform citizens of public hearings, enactment of statutes, proposals of new regulations and similar government action but, despite the wide-interest of New York State residents in all such matters, there is no central New York State register of this information," the attorney general said. Lefkowitz said he has written to Acting Secretary of State John J. Ghezzi proposing that his office compile such a record and report it in a weekly publication to be available to the public.

"This weekly State Register would answer the wide public interest in proposed governmental action. My office has answered hundreds of inquiries on an individual basis from the public relating to public hearings not only by my office but relating to matters of general interest," the attorney general said.

"Particularly, in these days when openness in government and the fullest citizen participation in issues which affect every New Yorker are recognized to be essential, the public is entitled to notice of the existence of hearings held by the state's departments and legislative committees. Often the newspaper notice required by law is inadequate to furnish timely information regarding these hearings," he concluded.

Moderating the panel will be Donald M. Wilson, vice president for corporate and public affairs, Time, Inc.

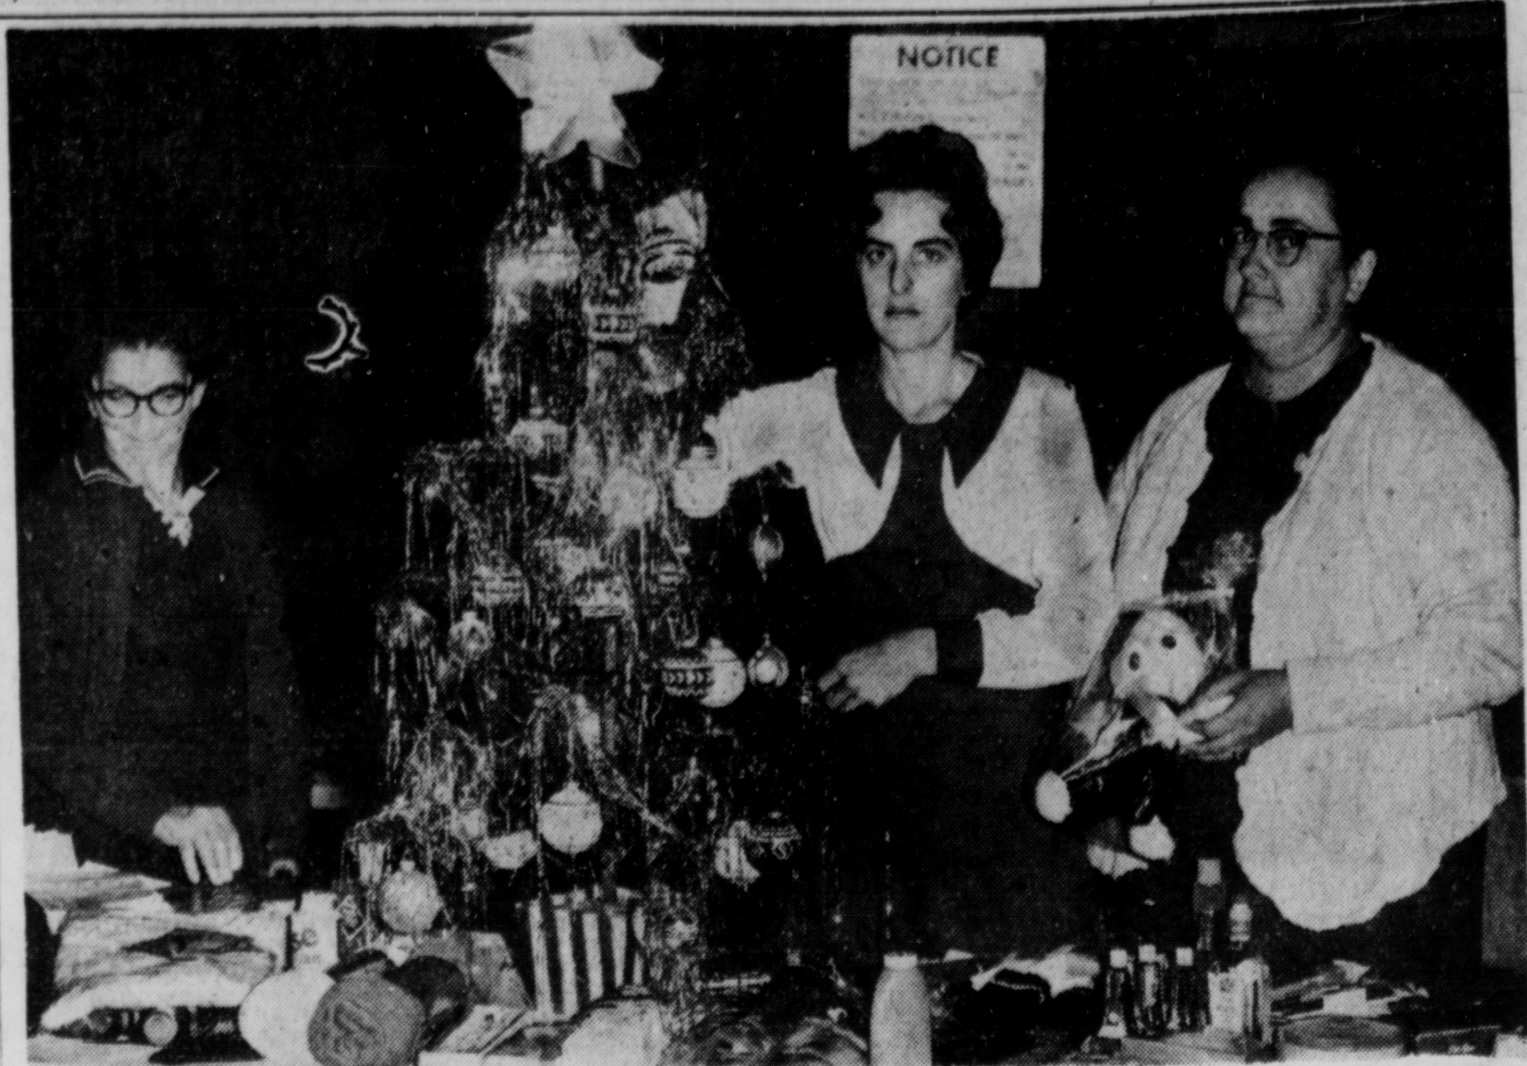

The panelists: Wallace Carroll, recently retired editor of the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel and former news editor of The New York Times.

Reed Harris, new president of the Freedoms Foundation and former director of the Voice of America. He resigned from VOA in 1953 after Senator Joseph McCarthy accused him of serving Soviet interests. Eventually vindicated, he was brought back to government service by Murrow to become assistant director of the USIA.

Edward Bliss Jr., head of broadcast journalism at American University and former editor of CBS News for 25 years.

Richard C. Hotelet, United Nations correspondent for CBS News since 1960.

The Murrow program is sponsored by the Poynter Fellowship Committee of the Changing American Culture.

"CHRISTMAS IN OCTOBER"—Women of the Moose, Kingston Chapter 697 celebrated "Christmas in October" recently, selecting a wide array of gifts for the Mooseheart and Moosehaven homes, sponsored by the Moose for members and their families. Those participating included Mary VanKleeck (L.), Moosehaven chairman, Sara Wagstad, Mooseheart chairman, and Betty Orr, senior regent. (Freeman photo by Haines)

State Police List Arrests

HURLEY Uniformed troopers and BCI investigators also made 109 felony arrests and 214 misdemeanor arrests during the month while investigating 970 complaints. Some 174 accidents were investigated by state police on highways in the two-county area, resulting in 95 accident-related arrests. Also reported were 17 arrests for overloaded vehicles. Uniform forces in Greene and Ulster Counties patrolled a total of 80,542 miles during September.

A total of 1,051 vehicle and traffic arrests were made by state police in Ulster and Greene Counties during the month of September, according to statistics released today by Lt. Stanley M. Kowalik, Zone Commander of the two-county zone.

The monthly report on activities by uniform and BCI forces also shows that 40 driving while intoxicated arrests were made during the month, as well as 130 speed computer arrests and 125 radar arrests.

Special Stamp Honoring 'Sleepy Hollow Country'

TARRYTOWN States postage stamp using two of Irving's most famous characters will be released at special ceremonies.

Faithfully following Irving's classic tale "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," the 10-cent stamp shows the Headless Horseman chasing Ichabod Crane on horseback under a weirdly shaped tulip tree.

In 1818 when Irving wrote his story he placed it in Sleepy Hollow. Irving himself had freely translated the words from the term "Die Slapering Haven."

The early Dutch settlers used this term to designate the inlet and region along the Hudson River where it met the Pocantico River.

Since 1883 Philipsburg's two-story stone Manor House and gristmill have stood on the banks of the Pocantico. Not far away the Manor's first owner, Frederick Philipse, built a stone church in 1697 that has been known as the Old Dutch Church of Sleepy Hollow for a very long time.

Today the church is separated from the Manor House by heavily-trafficked U.S. Rt. 9. And according to Washington Irving the church is the same one that Ichabod Crane strove to reach in his flight from the Headless Horseman.

If Crane, the Headless Horseman and Irving could attend the 11 a.m. ceremonies for the unveiling of their stamp, they would immediately recognize the surroundings.

Philipsburg appears as it did during their day: the 18th century. Corn is again ground into meal daily without any modern additives. The mill's power is still supplied by water from the Pocantico, backed up by the mill's 200-foot-long oak-timbered dam.

The same white-washed Manor House contains 18th century furnishings. Geese and ducks wander about as if 300 years had never passed.

Just outside the Manor House on the grassy flat the public along with local and federal officials will attend the dedication.

Here John W. Harbour Jr., executive director of Sleepy Hollow Restorations which maintains Philipsburg, and two postal authorities will officially issue the stamp for public use. The officials are Tarrytown postmaster Jack Edleson and Senior Assistant Postmaster General Ralph W. Nicholson from Washington, D.C.

The stamp is the sixth in the postal service's American Folklore Series which began in 1966 with the Johnny Appleseed stamp. Other subjects have been Davy Crockett in 1967, Daniel Boone in 1968, Grandma Moses in 1969 and Tom Sawyer in 1972.

The "Legend" stamp's designer will attend the dedication. He is Leonard E. Fisher of Westport, Conn., who also created the 1972 Bicentennial block of four colonial craftsman stamps.

Doggie's In Lead

SAUGERTIES Doggie's 'F' Troop hangs doggedly to its scant one-game lead in the Saugerties Darts League with a 12-3 record.

Meanwhile, back in the pack, three teams are tied with 11-4 records including the Cementon Sportsmen's Club, Centerville Volunteers and Katsbaan Apaches.

The rest of the league, judging from early returns, appears content to watch the "Big four" fight it out. No other team is above the break even point with Trinity leading the also-rans with a 7-8 record, leaving them five games off the pace.

Golden Eagles and Malden-West Camp Volunteers are 6-9, West Camp is 5-10 and Centerville is 4-11. Highlands Sportsmen's Club has a firm control of last place with a 2-13 record.

For David...Life in a Bubble

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Dr. David A. Freedman, a professor of psychiatry at the Baylor College of Medicine, has been only faces on the other side of a plastic wall, and responds to them with affection. He goes home in a portable bubble and stays with his family every six weeks or so. He lives there in a grouping of bubbles.

At the request of the boy's mother and father, hospital officials have declined to give the youngster's last name or identify his parents. They said he has one sister.

Freedman says that so far David's development — physically, intellectually and emotionally — has gone well. The boy is brighter than most children his age, his language skills are advanced and "he already knows his letters," Freedman said in an interview.

He is also agile and strong. He jumps and climbs and plays ball inside his 9-by-7-by-6-foot bubble with more skill than most 3-year-olds. He sleeps in a tunnel-shaped annex to the bubble.

Ex-Pug Doing 'God's Work'

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex. (UPI) — The marks of Ernest Hewitt's life are upon him — a bent nose from his years as prize fighter and bouncer, the delicate hands of a crochet expert and a gentle satisfaction in his eyes from 20 years as a Methodist minister.

"It's an oddity that God would call me," he said. "A man with my background. The things I've been and done. Sometimes I can't believe it myself, how I got away with it."

One life led to the other, and he is now the Rev. Ernest Hewitt, pastor of the little St. Paul United Methodist Church, membership 168, "including about 30 children."

"It's a minimum salary church and most of my people are elderly," the Rev. Hewitt said.

"Of course they have never done much, but we're getting them around. We have a nice little brick building, and it's paid for. It's got heating and cooling."

He learned needlepoint as a child, but did not do it much until he became a boxer.

"You see, I was the welterweight boxing champion of the U.S. Navy along in there," he said.

"I was wound up pretty tight, you know, and my reflexes were razor sharp, and my trainer wanted me to do something to relax me and sort of quiet me down."

He was a contender as a civilian for the world welterweight title, fighting under the name "Spider" Hewitt. He put in a considerable amount of time barnstorming as "Willie Fool."

He fought 168 professional fights, winning 68 by knockouts and losing only seven times, never by a knockout.

His face at 61 years old does not reflect the loser — no cauliflower ears, no thick

The Truth About Bonnie and Clyde

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Bonnie and Clyde roamed the Southwest in a fast Chevy or Ford roadster, robbing mostly small stores, shooting it out with lawmen, their escapes getting closer and closer each time.

As often as not, the man driving the car for Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker was J.C. Sullivan, who dodged bullets along with them. Sullivan also drove getaway cars for other glamorous bigtime gangsters, including "Pretty Boy" Floyd and "Machine Gun" Kelly.

Sullivan, now 67, remembers those days well. He ran from the law, chauffeured gangsters around in stolen cars and gambled away his wife's meager household funds. And Sullivan says, they weren't bigtime gansters at all, just petty thieves. Their glamor, he said, is a myth created by Hollywood.

"They didn't have the genuity to rob banks," Sullivan said.

Three times Sullivan went to prison. He escaped twice. But all the time, he said, "I was scared."

"I knew they would hunt me up and chase me down sooner or later," he said. "It was bound to happen. No one could evade the law as I had done for long and get by."

So about 30 years ago, he quit. He said he was "finished with the dark side of living."

He became a Christian and started a program called "Narrow Way" to help paroled prisoners learn skills and get jobs. He became a leader in the Baptist church.

"My mother is a Christian and she read the Bible to me at home and this stayed with me whenever I laid down on an old, hard prison bed," Sullivan said.

"People who get into crime don't realize the awfulness of it and the fear and the dread and the how you can bound into it. She Every man out there who is wanted is Clyde — they walk in fear and dread."

Hot Meals Aid County's Sr. Citizens

KINGSTON The Ulster County Human Resources Commission (UCHRC) is sponsoring a program to prepare a nutritious hot meal a day for some of the county's senior citizens, who, for a variety of reasons, often do not make such meals for themselves.

"Limited incomes, lack of transportation to the grocery store, physical limitations, the inconvenience of cooking for just one or two people, and the loneliness of eating alone are all factors that result in poor eating habits among the elderly," according to Joel Dinnerstein, former executive director of UCHRC.

The way the UCHRC's Hot Meals and Supportive Services Program is set up, it eliminates all these factors.

The program gets the food and cooks it at a central facility, provides transportation to where the meals are being served for those who need it, and the senior citizens who take part in the program have the companionship of others when they eat.

There are voluntary contributions of up to 65 cents accepted per meal for participants in the program. Any resident of Ulster County 60 years old or over is eligible.

The meals are being served at sites in Kingston, Rosendale, Saugerties, and Ellenville. The UCHRC reports "continuous pressure for expansion to other towns and hamlets."

The meals are prepared Monday through Friday in the program's central kitchen, in the Firemen's Hall kitchen in Rosendale, under the supervision of Lucille Jones. From the central kitchen the food is transported in thermal containers to each site.

The Saugerties site is located at the Lutheran Church on Market Street, the Ellenville site is in the WCTU Building, the Kingston site is the Rondout Neighborhood Service Center, and the Rosendale site is in the Firemen's Hall.

A sample meal, as given by the UCHRC, would be roast chicken with gravy, fluffy rice, baby carrots, lettuce and tomato salad, and tapioca pudding. The weekly menu is planned by Nancy Ogden, who is the meals program's director, and by Mrs. Jones, in cooperation with a trained dietician from a local Kingston hospital. The menus are then reapproved by the senior nutritionist at the New York State Office for the Aging.

The UCHRC-sponsored program is primarily funded by the State Office for the Aging. "Besides the one hot meal a day," Dinnerstein said, "the program provides supportive services to senior citizens. After-meal activities are planned such as movies, games, etc. Nutritional counseling and education is offered and shopping assistance is available to seniors through the program."

Transportation to shopping and to medical facilities is provided to senior citizens who request it.

According to the UCHRC, volunteers are needed to help out in the kitchen, provide lectures demonstrations, or instructions for the after-meal programs, including the arts and crafts area. Those wishing to volunteer should contact Ms. Ogden at the UCHRC offices in Kingston.

The program has had an approximate 20 per cent increase in senior citizen participation this year over last year, but UCHRC officials say the budget for the program has remained the same, at $55,000 and inflation is causing difficulties.

The UCHRC said it intends to go before the Ulster County Legislature for some local financing help for the program.

"With sufficient funds this program could grow phenomenally," said Ms. Ogden. "Approximately 500 meals are served a week," she said, "and with sufficient funds it would be possible to serve at least 1,000 or more meals a week county-wide."

Another Problem In Ulster Town

LAKE KATRINE affected by the delay are the Town of Ulster Supervisor Rustler Steak House (and all Carmine Sabino could write a of Mammoth Mall for that book about the things that have matter). Montgomery Ward, gone wrong with the town's Carroll's Restaurant, Amerling problem-plagued Sewer Improvement project.

The latest chapter involves a short section of pipe along Boice's Lane, just west of the railroad tracks. Because that section is essentially inoperative, every major commercial establishment along Ulster Avenue Mall between the Chambers School and Route 209 has been denied permission, for the time being, to begin pumping sewage into the system.

And the businesses, as a result, have left literally holding their own sewage. For most, the delay has meant added inconvenience and expense.

Sabino explained Monday that the Balport Construction Co., one of the main sewer lines in subcontracting for the Simone Construction Co., laid the short section of pipe at the wrong grade or pitch. Because the level is wrong, the sewage can't be fed to the Sewage Treatment Plant a half-mile away.

Engineers for the project line have refused to accept the work until the problem is corrected. Balport, Sabino contends, has been hesitant to rectify its mistake.

"We've had several meetings about the problem," Sabino commented, "the last word we had was that they would begin work on Friday. They never showed up Friday, and they weren't here today (Monday)."

Sabino said the work could be accomplished by both he and Balport in two or three days, and won't involve any added expense for the town.

Among the commercial places will be available.

Pact Agreement

William J. Donnelly, president, Red Hook Faculty Association and Russell J. Keefe, district principal, Red Hook Central School District have announced agreement for work on Friday. They never showed up Friday, and they weren't here today (Monday)."

Sabino said the work could be accomplished by both he and Balport in two or three days, and won't involve any added expense for the town.

Among the commercial places will be available.

Legislator Charges 'Deal' on City Tax Payments

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON Charges of "dirty politics" and "a deal being made" between the Democrats and Republicans were lodged today by County Legislator Eugene P. Perry, a Democratic representative of the city on the county board who said that although he is in favor of a proposal allowing the city to pay its share of county taxes in three yearly payments, he cannot vote for it because of the "bedfellow" arrangement made between the parties. Perry claims that a mutual deal was made in which it was agreed that if the Democrats came up with enough votes to approve a bond issue for a county park in New Paltz then the GOP legislators would come up with enough votes to approve the three-payment proposal and also give the Democrats a legislative minority counsel, something they have wanted for a long time. The legislature itself has counsel. Previously the lack of Democratic votes defeated the proposal. Three three-payment propositions are expected to come before the Legislature when it meets Thursday at 8 p.m. in the County Office Building. It has been reported that the Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig met with the city legislators on the county board to discuss the possibility of the passage of the resolution calling for the three-payment plan. In July, the Legislature defeated the bond resolution calling for the park bond issue by a vote of 20 to 12 with one Republican absent. Twenty-two votes were needed to give a Previously the Republican legislators have fought the three-payment proposal saying it was not equitable for the city to use funds belonging to the county when the money could be in county interest-bearing accounts rather than in the city coffers. The GOP has also repeatedly opposed the minority counsel proposal saying that the county legislature has its own counsel and that his services are available to Democratic as well as Republican legislators. The Democrats counter that they are disadvantaged in that the GOP members enjoy the services of Republican attorneys. The Legislature will meet at 4 as well as 8 p.m. Several speakers were scheduled to appear at the 4 p.m. session but their appearances have been postponed to a later date county parks.

Walliser, Hinchey, Mayone Present Views

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON Three candidates for office explained their views and answered questions from the audience Tuesday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel as the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club sponsored its annual "Meet the Candidates Night." Speakers were Maurice Hinchey, Democratic candidate for the Assembly in the 101st District, Yvonne Walliser, independent candidate for Ulster County Sheriff, and Thomas Mayone, her Republican opponent. Unable to attend were Republican Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and incumbent Democratic Sheriff William B. Martin. Hinchey proposed to open up the State Legislature by abolishing the power of committee chairmen "to play God government when one-half of the population controls the whole thing," said the first woman ever to run for Ulster County Sheriff. She also said she favored rehabilitating the criminal by "touching him with our mind and feelings to make him realize his worth as a human being." Calling present drug laws inadequate, she said "We must give the criminal something to do beside spending his time in a fog of drugs. We must give him a better life." Walliser, a sociology major who has done rehabilitation work at the local jail for the State Department of Correction, said one reason why women are so important in crime prevention "is because we are so often the victim of crimes." She cited an 87 per cent increase in male crime and a 200 per cent increase in female crime during the past 16 years as reasons why a new approach to rehabilitation is needed. Mayone, a former deputy sheriff and county investigator and the current investigator for the District Attorney's office, cited his 26 years in law enforcement, saying a successful candidate for Sheriff should be able to step in and take charge immediately. "I have 26 years of experience and I can do it," he said. Mayone said the county jail had suffered extensive damage because Sheriff Martin was not available full time and pledged to serve full time if elected. He said that rumors he would "clean house" if elected were untrue. "There are many good men in the Sheriff's Department," he said. "They just need direction." Asked how he would get better wages for deputies,

Mayone said he favored their joining CSEA, which represents most other county employees. He said that Martin had weakened the department's cause by introducing another union (Teamsters Local 445). He also said that Martin had never gone before the County Legislature on behalf of his employees and promised he would go before the Legislature to fight for a raise for them — "they deserve it."

A questioner who claimed that prisoners were "mollycoddled" asked Walliser why she favored a "soft" line toward them. "What good is a hard line if they go out in a few months and do it again and graduate to the penitentiary?" she asked. She said she wants to make the criminal realize he can fight society on a legal basis. "I don't want a country club — I just want them to realize their worth."

Asked if she could cope with the everyday job of dealing with prisoners, Walliser said: "I would not go into the prison alone — I doubt that Bill Martin ever did."

Asked how he would privately finance elections, Hinchey said he favored small voluntary contributions of $1 or $2. "We must get control of government by getting control of the election process," he said. Hinchey said he had streamlined the professional licensing department he took over two years ago by eliminating unneeded items. "The department now serves twice as many people with less employees," he said.

Mayone, responding to a woman who said it was time to "mollycoddle citizens instead of criminals," said that treatment became too lenient only after police had done their work and turned suspects over to the courts. "Don't blame the police," he said. "It is the court system that is too lenient."

Collette Sonnenberg, BPWC president, welcomed the candidates, who were introduced by Hilda Krum, BPWC legislative chairman.

CANDIDATES SPEAK OUT—Three candidates for office in the November elections addressed a meeting of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday night, presenting their stands on the issues and responding to questions. Shown at the meeting are Maurice Hinchey (L), Democratic candidate for state Assembly, Collette Sonnenberg, BPWC president, Yvonne Walliser, Independent candidate for sheriff, Hilda Krum, BPWC legislative chairman, and Thomas Mayone, Republican-Conservative candidate for sheriff. Permit Approved in Hurley

HURLEY The Hurley Zoning Board of Appeals has granted John Metzger of Morgan Hill Road a permit for a mobile home park in three stages, contingent upon approval by the Ulster County Board of Health and the Department of Environmental Conservation.

In granting the permit, the board set several requirements which Metzger must meet. As outlined by ZBA Chairman Harold Graff, they include:

- Completion of only one stage of construction at this time, with the stage to be

- Metzger must plant pine trees along the Morgan Hill Road area.
- The 800-foot shale road from Schiltneck Road into the site must be widened sufficient to accommodate two lane traffic. "Rescue and fire calls make this a necessity."
- All site areas must be a minimum of 10,000 square feet, since "the precedent set for Oehler Park must be kept." The board assured Metzger that he would not be required to increase the minimum area even though the new ordinance may require larger site areas for future parks.
- "We trust that these regulations won't place undue hardship on you, but that you will accept them in the best interest of keeping our town a beautiful and healthy place to live in," the board told Metzger in its letter notifying him of approval.

Complications Stall Peace Talks

By United Press International
Jewish settlers opposed to territorial concessions and Egyptian diplomats backing guerrilla demands today complicated Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's bid to get the stalled Middle East peace talks moving. Both the settlers and the Egyptians tried to head off moves toward an Israeli-Jordanian disengagement pact, threatening one of the options open to Kissinger on his latest Middle East peace mission.

The secretary of state traveled to Cairo today at the start of his seventh negotiating trip to the region since the 1973 Middle East War. In Israel, hundreds of religious Jews stormed past army barricades to set up encampments along the occupied West Bank in areas declared off-limits to settlers by the government. The squatters began putting up tents and workshops in a protest to any territorial compromises between Israel and Jordan.

A manifesto issued by the squatters said "the settlement movement is a concrete expression of the Jews' right to all of the Land of Israel."

About 50 men and women scrambled through the desert to reach one of the sites at the Arab village of Al-Azaria halfway between Jerusalem and Jericho. Others pitched camp before dawn north near Ramallah and Nablus.

All the chosen areas have been barred to Jewish settlers since the West Bank was captured from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East War.

In Cairo, Egyptian diplomats said they oppose Israeli-Jordanian military disengagement at present because of the unsettled situation arising from differences between King Hussein's government and Palestinian guerrillas.

In a communique issued jointly with Jordan last July, Egypt said King Hussein should speak for Palestinians living in Jordan while the Palestine Liberation Organization should represent all other Palestinians.

In the Cairo document, Egypt also supported military disengagement on the Israeli-Jordanian cease-fire lines.

Police Report Slain Girl Was 'Bludgeoned' to Death

NANUET, N.Y. (UPI) — Police say a 15-year-old girl, found slain Tuesday in a wooded area near her home in this Rockland County community, apparently was bludgeoned with a "blunt, irregularly shaped object."

The teen-ager, a sophomore at Nanuet High School, was reported missing Monday night after she set out at about 3:30 p.m. that day for the Nanuet Mall, a shopping center located about one-quarter mile from her home.

Firemen Avert Serious Damage

MT. MARION — An apparently dangerous situation was averted early today by Mt. Marion firemen who doused a blaze on a Penn Central Railroad car which was reportedly carrying sulphuric acid.

Search On For Suspect

WOODLAND VALLEY — Search continued today by state police for the accomplice of a 32-year-old Fleischmanns man in connection with the reported Monday morning abduction of 29-year-old Lynn Marie Anderson from a commune in this western Ulster County community.

Firemen quickly doused the blaze, and no damage was reported to the tank car itself, according to Kallios. Elsewhere, another fire early today gutted an unoccupied house on Krippelbush Road in Krippelbush.

Mr. Green gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a white gown of Chantilly lace designed with bouffant silhouette; Empire waist, renaissance sleeves and ring collar. Honey Knox, niece of the bride, as a flower girl wore a lavender gown styled with ring collar, Empire waist with tie sash embroidered with white daisies. Lekia Hopgood, daughter of the matron of honor, as the other flower girl wore a similar gown in peach. They wore hair ribbons to match their gowns and carried baskets of daisies and baby's breath.

Give the Bully an Out-of-School Lesson

DEAR ABBY: If someone tries to pick a fight with you at school and you have done everything you can to avoid a fight, but that person starts pushing you around, and you have to use force to defend yourself, do you think it's fair that the person who was trying to defend himself should get punished just the same as the troublemaker?

What is a person supposed to do when he is picked on by someone who is trying to get him into a fight? I am not going to just stand there and let him push me around. Fighting is against the rules on our school grounds.

UNFAIRLY PUNISHED
DEAR UN: When someone tries to provoke a fight by pushing you around, instead of pushing HIM around, report him to the authorities. This may sound like the chicken's way out, but it's the only way to protect yourself from the punishment of breaking the "no fighting" rules at your school. (P.S. You might consider taking some lessons in self defense, and give that bully a surprise lesson in case he ever tries to push you around OFF the school grounds.)

DEAR ABBY: I read about that mother who never wanted children but she accidentally had two anyway. She said not all women were cut out to be mothers, and she was one of them.

She may be interested in my story: My husband and I always wanted a large family. Ten months after we were married I gave birth to a healthy baby boy. We couldn't wait to have more. Twelve miscarriages later, I had another son. He was born dead.

A year later, I gave birth to another son. Eighteen months later, a third son was born, but we soon discovered that our second and third sons were both severely deaf.

They needed special education. After thousands of dollars worth of tutoring and much hard work, our two deaf sons are now able to talk nearly as well as our normal son.

I wanted children desperately, and their being handicapped doesn't make us love them any less. Some handicaps can be overcome.

I hope that mother realizes that in her refusal to love her children she is handicapping. And I hope she overcomes her handicap before it handicaps her unloved children.

LUCKY IN ILLINOIS
DEAR LUCKY. Your children are lucky, too. God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the young mother who had the courage to admit that she felt "stuck" with her two kids who were both accidents.

I have one child, but she wasn't an accident. I really wanted a child, but I soon realized that I wasn't cut out to be a mother. I have never

Second Meeting LaLeche League Couples Series

The second meeting in the Couples Series will be held on Friday, Oct. 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Usticke, 98 Clifton Ave. Kingston.

LaLeche League was founded to help new mothers who wished to breastfeed their babies but had no outside source for help and encouragement. Fathers are playing a more active role of support and encouragement for their breastfeeding wives and nursing children, and their active participation in the birth experience brings them ever increasingly into the total family centered aspects of childbirth and childrearing; in essence, preparation for parenthood. It is with this in mind that the couples series has been initiated. Those who plan to breastfeed or are presently nursing are urged to attend.

The Kingston League was founded in 1970, and since that time has trained four additional leaders; presently there are two in training. In the past four years since its inception, the Kingston league has been in contact with over five hundred women, thru meetings and telephone counseling. Because of the large numbers of women attending the meetings in Kingston, it was necessary to split into two groups, and in addition there are new groups meeting in the Saugerties and New Paltz areas.

The Couples Series is "a first" for LaLeche, and through this endeavor it is hoped others will be able to share in the enthusiasm which the couples share with those who are just starting families or nursing for the first time.

Running simultaneously with the Couples Series will be "women only" meetings held the third Tuesday of each month at the home of Mrs. Linda Donaldson, a qualified leader. Barclay Heights, Saugerties, and the last Wednesday of each month at the home of Mrs. Ginger Malloy, 36 Alcazar Ave., Kingston.

Leading the discussion at the Couples Series will be Mrs. Pan Usticke. Co-leading will be Mrs. Ruth Scogna, also of Kingston. Supporting leaders will be Mrs. Linda Donaldson, Saugerties, and Mrs. Cheri Andrews of Rosendale. The Couples Series will run the second Friday of each month for four months. Topics include Advantages of Breastfeeding; The Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties; Baby Arrives; and Nutrition and Weaning.

Anyone wishing detailed information regarding the meetings should contact one of the aforementioned leaders.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE
THE PRICE OF EGGS IS NO YOLK — SO FREEZE 'EM!

Dear Heloise: An ideal way to freeze eggs is to use a plastic cube tray. Break your egg and put each one in a separate cube holder. Then when you want eggs, pop out as many as needed and let thaw.

Mrs. Janice Gardner
Just as a reminder to you dolls who may have forgotten how to freeze eggs, we will reprint this.

So many of you have asked, "Can eggs be frozen?" The answer is yes, eggs may be frozen, either whole, or as yolks and whites separately when removed from their shells. Only the highest quality eggs should be used for freezing.

Top quality eggs, properly prepared, packed and freezer stored, hold their quality well for nine months to a year. For freezing use a rigid container such as heavily waxed cups, plastic or metal freezer boxes.

The container should be small enough to hold just the quantity of eggs to be used at one time or for one recipe. To allow for expansion of egg during freezing, leave one half to three-quarter inch headspace, depending upon the size of container. Whether to add sweetening or salt depends on how the egg is to be used, i.e., for cake or dessert, or for scrambled eggs or a main dish.

Whole Egg: Break into measuring cup. Add 1/2 tablespoon sugar or corn syrup per one cup eggs or 1/2 teaspoon salt. Stir with fork or beater enough to mix thoroughly but not enough to whip in air. Put through a food mill or medium-mesh strainer. Pour into container, seal, label, and freeze.

Egg Yolks: To each cup of yolks add 1 tablespoon sugar or syrup or 1/2 tablespoon salt and mix thoroughly. Strain, pour into container, seal and freeze.

Egg White: When separating whites and yolks, avoid getting even a drop of yolk in the white. If a trace gets in, remove with tip of spoon. Otherwise white will not whip well. Put whites through food mill or strainer. Pour in container, seal and freeze. No sugar or salt need be added to white.

To Use Frozen Eggs: Thaw in container in refrigerator, use promptly. Once thawed, frozen eggs are highly perishable. Substitute for fresh eggs in recipes as follows: 2 1/2 tablespoons whole egg for 1 egg; 1 tablespoon yolk for 1 egg yolk; 1 1/2 tablespoons white for one egg white.

So gals, when eggs are on sale... buy 'em!

Watch for the ads in the paper and don't let this bargain pass you by. Comes the time when eggs are about the price of gold nuggets... then enjoy 'em without choking!

Letter of Thought
Recipe for trouble. Be still, and listen to what God has to say.

Heri Duffield

Dear Heloise: I bought a medicine cabinet with a light and put it in my kitchen. In a corner, high and out of sight.

I put all of the medicine in it. Someone is always in the kitchen and can make sure kids don't bother it.

This way the bathroom is not tied up with someone just wanting to get an aspirin and I can remember more easily who has to take their pills if they are taking some.

Claudia Hawkins DeSance

Dear Heloise: For my school we had to collect leaves. We went to the park and found 47.

We needed something to put them in. First we took a sheet of waxed paper and folded it in half and put the leaf between the two halves. Then we fastened it top and bottom so the leaf could not fall out. Then we put holes in the paper so it would fit into the rings of a loose leaf notebook.

This will work for lots of hobbies.

Someone Age Nine

Dear Heloise: For a number of years I have found it difficult to keep the grocery bags and cartons of soft drinks from falling over and tumbling about in the back of my station wagon.

One day it occurred to me to place two boxes (the bakery man had left behind) side by side near the back door of my station wagon.

Now I just load grocery bags into the boxes and I have no more spilled merchandise that I have to crawl inside the back of the station wagon to gather up when I arrive home.

Doing the Right Thing by Elezabeth Post

© 1974 by The Emily Post Institute, Inc. Distributed by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: My questions involve my son's out-of-state wedding in early March and the fact that his father and I were divorced a couple of months ago.

At the wedding service (which will be extremely formal—a candlelight evening service), what are the correct seating arrangements for his father and me, if:

a) my ex-husband and I arrive separately, but alone?

b) if either of us attends with a guest of the opposite sex?

c) if either of us is remarried at the time, and one or both of our spouses attend?

At the rehearsal party, which I understand is the responsibility of my son's father, do the groom's parents attend? May extra guests of my husband or I, a date, fiancé(e) or a spouse, be included? How is this handled?

Mrs. Brooks

Dear Mrs. Brooks: In answer to your questions:

a) You should sit in the first pew on the groom's side, either alone or with your parents or other family members. Your husband should sit in the next pew behind, or two back if grandparents are seated in the second pew.

b) Guests of the opposite sex should be seated further back in the church—not in the "family" pews.

c) If either of you is remarried, your spouse may sit in the pew with you, unless your son is resentful of him (or her), in which case he should be seated further back.

If you and your ex-husband are friendly, there is no reason why you should not both attend the rehearsal dinner, but you should be seated at opposite ends of the table. If you are not on good terms, and he gives the dinner. It would be best for you not to attend. If either of you is engaged or remarried, your spouse or fiancé(e) should be included.

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is getting married this fall and I need some advice on the proper way the receiving line should be set up. My husband and I were divorced. I have remarried, but he has not. How do you think this should be arranged?

Mrs. M.W.

Dear Mrs. W.: You should not stand in the receiving line with your first husband. If your son has been living with you and your present husband, you should stand in the line with him. If your son is not close to his stepfather, you stand by yourself in the line next to the bride's mother or her mother and father, if he wishes to "receive" also. It is not necessary that any of the men be in the receiving line, and when there is a complication such as yours, it is often best that they do not.

Special for Any Occasion

Bread baking is no longer the chore of days gone by. New methods and modern appliances have eliminated most of the drudgery and guesswork. And many people are discovering what a fulfilling and enjoyable experience making bread can be. They're finding too that modern methods can still produce a loaf that is full of the old-fashioned flavor and texture of the past, especially when extra ingredients such as spices, nuts and raisins turn a plain loaf into a special treat.

Nowhere is this more apparent than with this up-dated version of the Italian classic . . . Panettone. Made the easier, modern way, this bread still retains all the character of the traditional sweet bread from Milan. For extra appeal this recipe calls for combination of both dark and golden raisins. The sweetness of the dark raisins contrasts deliciously with the tangy golden raisins giving a very special flavor indeed.

The old world Panettone is usually baked in tall cylinders and frosted with a thin sugar icing. But it's just as easily formed into low round loaves and baked in cake pans. Traditionally, Panettone is served for breakfast along with fresh fruit. It's equally appropriate as a light moist dessert, and it is particularly delicious when served with zesty Orange Butter. However you serve it, Panettone lends a special touch to any occasion.

Italian Panettone

Two packages active dry yeast.

One-half cup sugar.

Two teaspoons salt.

Six to six and one-half cups flour.

One cup water.

One-half cup butter or margarine.

One teaspoon grated lemon peel.

Four eggs.

One and one-half cups California raisins (mixed golden and regular).

One-third cup pine nuts (reserve one tablespoon for garnish).

One cup mixed chopped candied fruits.

Powdered sugar.

In large mixer bowl, mix undissolved yeast with sugar, salt and two cups of the flour.

Heat water with butter and lemon peel over low heat until very warm (120-130 degrees; check with thermometer).

Add liquids to dry ingredients. Beat for two minutes at medium speed. Add two cups more of the flour and the eggs; beat three minutes. Stir in almost all of remaining flour. Knead dough on floured board about eight minutes — or until smooth and elastic.

Place in buttered bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk — about two hours. Punch down; knead in raisins, nuts and fruit. Shape into two round loaves. Place in two greased 9" cake pans; brush lightly with butter. Let rise one to one and one-half hours until doubled. With sharp knife, slash top of each loaf to make a cross. Bake at 350 degrees, 45 to 55 minutes. Turn onto rack. Brush lightly with butter. Garnish with remaining pine nuts. Dust with powdered sugar. Serve with orange butter (recipe follows). Delicious toasted, too.

Fair Prices Listed For Most Meats

Because retailers have taken advantage of recent wholesale meat price fluctuations, there will be a fair number of features in most classes of meat this week. So, according to the Consumer and Market Information Service of the New York Department of Agriculture and Markets, the name of the game for thrifty purchases is "shop for features."

Most areas will have a good assortment of beef items. Steaks on feature will be sirloin steak from $1.39 to $1.79, porterhouse steak from $1.59 to $1.89, round steak from $1.48 to $1.89, and chuck steak, depending on cut and trim from 59 cents to 95 cents. Some good roast purchases will be chuck roast from 65 cents to 99 cents, round roast from $1.49 to $1.65 and rolled rump roast from $1.59 to $1.78. Other beef items of note are frankfurters from 75 cents to $1.19, ground beef from 79 cents to 85 cents, ground chuck from 90 cents to $1.09.

stew beef from $1.15 to $1.68, corned beef from 98 cents to $1.29 and short ribs as low as 60 cents.

Pork features, although not widespread, should not be bypassed. Especially pork loin rib end from 77 cents to 87 cents, pork loin — loin end from 87 cents to 97 cents and center cut pork chops from $1.35 to $1.85. Other good purchases worth seeking are smoked ham butt at 75 cents, smoked ham shank at 65 cents, whole fresh ham at 79 cents and shoulder picnic from 49 cents to 59 cents. Also, spare ribs as low as 89 cents, bacon from 99 cents to $1.29 and sausage, depending on type, from 89 cents to $1.25, are not to be shied away from.

Here and there, broilers and fryers will be in the vicinity of 47 cents, cut from 49 cents to 55 cents. In one area, large turkeys will be on special at 45 cents, stewing chicken 48 cents and Cornish game hens at 59 cents.

Ron Gabriele One-Man Staff At Columbia-Greene College

RON GABRIELE

By IRA FUSFELD

Outside his office in the new physical education building at Columbia-Greene Community College, workmen were putting the finishing touches on the basketball court. Inside, Athletic Director Ron Gabriele talked about his new job.

"I miss Kingston," the former Kingston High School cross country and swimming coach admitted, "but this was the opportunity for me. I'm enjoying it so far. It's quite a challenge."

Gabriele is literally a one-man physical education staff. He teaches 15 hours worth of classes and normally works from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., not counting the time he puts in as AD, being present at varsity sports events.

In addition, he's just taken on the cross country coaching job for the remainder of this season, with coach Barry Hopkins, the former Ontario High School and Ulster County Community College runner, having had to resign for personal reasons.

"I'm listed as an assistant professor of physical education," Gabriele explained. "The athletic director job is something extra. But that's quite a bit more work than I anticipated... scheduling, contracting, setting up officials and the like."

Gabriele teaches classes in archery, outdoors, horseback riding, tennis, weights, bowling, recreational activities and recreational leadership. All classes are coeducational.

The college has two fall varsity sports: cross country, now coached by Gabriele, and soccer, coached by Tom June, an employee of the Greene County Association of Retarded Children.

Basketball, the college's oldest sport, will be coached for the fifth year by Don Woods, a physical education teacher from the Hudson City Schools District.

"In the spring they have had intercollegiate club softball, but we're hoping to drop that and add varsity baseball," Gabriele said. "I have also proposed the formation of women's varsity volleyball. We do have varsity cheerleading."

The college is one of the smaller two-year schools in the state with an enrollment of 400 full-time students. The new physical education building is geared for expansion and includes a main gym measuring 100x120, a universal gym weight room, locker rooms, team rooms, a medical room, and offices.

"Believe it or not we have some students here from Ulster County, particularly from Phoenixia and Kingston," Gabriele pointed out. "Mainly they come here because we offer certain courses Ulster Community doesn't. We have a forestry program, for example, with a direct tie-in to Syracuse University."

Gabriele says much of the technical assistance he's received in this first year as athletic director has come from none other than his old boss at Kingston High, Bill Hurley.

"Much of this is new to me and Bill has been quite a help," Gabriele noted.

And it should come as no surprise to his friends in the area to learn that Gabriele is still doing radio work. The former broadcaster for two Kingston radio stations and telecaster for cablevision is on the air over WHUC each Monday at 5:30 p.m. with a telephone talk show on which he promotes activities at Columbia-Greene.

Gabriele was born in Kingston but grew up in nearby Athens so his return to this area (he and his wife, Arlene, and three children are living in Catskill) is a homecoming of sorts.

"But it's funny," he sighed. "When I was in Kingston I referred to this area as my home and now that I'm here I talk about Kingston as being home."

In fact, Ron turned the tables on his interviewer by eagerly asking questions about Kingston High's football and cross country teams.

But while it's obvious Gabriele misses his old pals in Kingston, he's very much enjoying his new life here and before long he'll be calling Columbia-Greene "home."

WFL Fading... Fading

By United Press International

And then there were 10...with nine a distinct possibility by season's end.

The World Football League is making rapid progress—backward—and that means only five games will be played this week instead of the customary six. We have paid our last respects to the Detroit Wheels and Jacksonville Sharks and with that done away with, can the Florida Blazers be far behind?

The "waffle" or "whiffle" if you prefer, resumes play Wednesday night with what remains of its schedule—Portland at Birmingham, the Hawaiians at Philadelphia, Memphis at Charlotte, N.C., and Florida, the latest franchise to be taken over by the league office, at Chicago.

Two other survivors—Shreveport, La., and Southern California—play Thursday night on the west coast.

The league mounted a surprise challenge to the National Football League before play began in the older, established league by signing some top NFL stars for play in 1975. But since then, the latest brainstorm of Gary Davidson has run into a series of disasters, the latest being the folding of the Detroit and Jacksonville franchises.

Under the guidance of young Davidson, the WFL now has assumed the operation of two franchises, the abortive New York club which was transferred to Charlotte, and the Houston team which now masquerades as the entry from Shreveport.

While Davidson's other new league ventures survive in the World Hockey Association and the American Basketball Association, his WFL appears in dire trouble. Attendance figures, hyped by free admissions in opening games, have slumped steadily, and the pressures of inflation have driven projected first season financial losses to heights never anticipated.

But the league insisted Tuesday that the contracts of players now in uniform, and the agreements reached with such NFL stars as Larry Csonka, Kenny Stabler, Paul Warfield, Craig Morton and Ted Hendricks would still be honored.

Obviously, the league still hopes that with these names joining the ranks in the next two years, survival is still a reality. But now, in its 15th week of operation, the problems continue to mount, and there is little talk of the "world" aspect of the new league.

When play begins tonight, the Charlotte entry will face the Memphis Southmen. Charlotte, on paper, was supposed to be the Boston franchise. It wound up instead in New York, then fled the "Big Apple" two weeks ago. Oh yes, call them the Hornets now.

On Thursday night, Shreveport, mark them down as the Steamers in case you've been caught up in other issues of late, will visit Anaheim to meet the Southern California Sun. Shreveport began as the Houston franchise, where the club was known as the Texans.

The President will be happy. Here we have at least one piece of Americana that is not inflating.

Area Sports Briefs Siegel Locust Tree Champ

NEW PALTZ Randy Siegel defeated Doug Sheppard, U. golf coach, 2 and 1, to capture the 1974 Locust Tree Country Club men's championship.

Siegel eliminated Joe Koon 3 and 2 in a first round match and then defeated Walt Yeager 3 and 2 in the semi-finals of the eight-player Championship Flight.

Sheppard edged Allen Masters, New Paltz High School coach, 1-up in first round play and followed up with a 3-up triumph over John Chicola. Yeager topped Jerry Badum 3-up and Chicola ousted Ron Mackey in other first round matches.

Howie Buck defeated George Ullrich 5 and 4 for First Flight honors.

Sawyer-Ettes Win Twice

SAUGERTIES Saugerties High School's girls volleyball team has opened its Dutchess County Scholastic League season with successive victories over Spackenkill and Our Lady of Lourdes.

First, they checked Spackenkill 15-10 and 15-3, then were harder pressed to win over Lourdes 15-7, 15-7. The team was scheduled to play at John Jay today and at Roosevelt High Thursday.

The Jayvees emulated the varsity in sweeping both matches.

Touchdown Passes Abound

SAUGERTIES John Sullivan ran one yard for a touchdown and passed for three others to pace Pier 7 to 28-2 romp over Mountain Boys in the A Division of the SAA Touch Football League. He hit Steve Schabot for 29 and 23 yards and Kevin Murphy from the 24. The win ties Pier 7 with Nancy's Lounge for the league lead at 2-0-1.

In the B Division, Howard Johnson's handed Alpha Cement its first loss 21-0 to take over the lead with a 3-0 mark. Fire Department has 2-0. George Seuss fired TD passes to Fred Fisher (10 yards), Doc Silinovich (22) and Nick Ascenzio (14).

Holy Cross overwhelmed Edgar's 46-20. Billy Noon ran 5 yards for a score and completed five touchdown passes for HC, hitting Kevin Dwyer twice (10, 45); Alan Pease (9, 10); Dave Rattle (32). Mike Fox ran 45 yards with an interception.

Phil Abdallah hit Ed Goloski (74) and Jesse Caprotti (36) for Edgar's Goloski got off the longest run of the season—from goal line to goal line—with a 69-yard interception.

Jeff's Place tied Mt. Marion A.C. for the C Division lead with a 13-7 win over Gunjah Warriors. The Jeffs scored on Roger Stelts' 23 yard pass to Dinky Dugan and Stelts' 6-yarder to Zip Secreto. Vic Tummlillo passed 6 yards to Don Newkirk for the Gunjah score.

Pronoses End Of Davis Cup

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The president of the Lawn Tennis Association of Malaysia, Jamil Rais, said today that South Africa should stay out of the Davis Cup competition "for the good of all."

Malaysia will continue to oppose South African presence and a country which practices apartheid should not be allowed to compete, said Rais, who was on the Davis Cup special committee which ruled out South African participation in the 1970 Davis Cup competition.

Jamil's remarks to newsmen came in the wake of India's continued refusal to meet South Africa in the Davis Cup final because of its racial policies.

Coleman, Red Hook Win Form Is Holding Up In UCAL X-Country

KINGSTON Ulster County Athletic League cross-country teams gather at New Paltz State Friday for the first of two championship meets and they'll be safe in the knowledge that just about everything has gone according to form so far.

There were no upsets Tuesday when the 12 teams held their latest series of dual meets. Defending champion Coleman had an easy time winning its contest, Red Hook stayed close with a victory in its match, and New Paltz and Pine Bush remained unbeaten in their division.

Coleman was a 15-40 winner over Ellenville; Red Hook stopped Fallsburgh, 21-37; Marlboro downed Highland, 27-30; New Paltz defeated Liberty, 19-42; Pine Bush stopped Rondout Valley, 15-47; and Onteora outscored Walkkill, 18-37.

Eric Schroeter, the latest in the ever-growing line of Coleman cross-country stars, broke his course's 2.5-mile record by winning in 12:12 against Ellenville. Kevin Post had set the standard on the Hurley Avenue layout with a 12:18 logging.

The Statesmen swept the first seven places against the winless Ellies.

Mark Gravino, the sophomore sensation from Red Hook, broke the Fallsburgh course record by 33 seconds as he came home first in 12:57. Mike Mahoney and Bill Staggis of the Raiders followed him across the wire.

Red Hook hopes to make up for its dual meet loss to Coleman at the league meet in which a point is accumulated for each team you beat. At the end of the season, dual meet points are combined with points totaled at the two league meets.

The Year of Aches and Pains...

Is The Bloom Finally Fading from Big Time Football?

BIG BLUES: John Hoey (L) president of Orchard Hill Farms and John Stote, president of J&G Drywall, Inc. of Kingston pose with blue marlins they entered in the famed Hatteras Billfish Tournament at the Hatteras Marlin Club of Hatteras, N. C. Fishing with Oregon Inlet skipper Sam Stokes on Fight-N-Lady, the local anglers boasted three blues and a white marlin and held the lead through the tournament's first three days, eventually finishing third. The tournament haul included 34 blue marlins, 10 whites and two sailfish, the biggest haul since 1963 when 50 blues were taken.

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
MIAMI (AP) — "The football season so far has been zany, and it is going to get zanier," said Joe Robbie, president of the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins.

"All of us are struggling to keep our heads above water. Part of it is the economic situation. The strike hurt. Fans have been turned off. Congress is on our backs. Elimination of TV blackouts is a big problem. There is pressure from the World Football League.

"To meet this threat, we have had to double salaries in some cases. We have mortgaged the financial future of the Miami Dolphins."

Pro football, as represented by the established National Football League, is hurting, and the pain can be felt in this tropical citadel of the NFL's two-time champions and the most successful franchise in the league.

Is the bloom finally fading from big-time pro football? There are now gaping holes in the giant stadium which only a year ago were packed with capacity crowds of cheering fans. At the height of the game's popularity, the only way to get a good ticket to a big game was to inherit it. Fans without tickets would travel miles to escape the blackout circle and watch their favorite team on TV.

There were thousands of empty seats when the Dolphins opened their bid for a third national crown against the New England Patriots at Foxboro, Mass. A week before the Dolphins were to make their home debut in the Orange Bowl against Joe Namath and the New York Jets, some 6,500 seats remained unsold.

Dolphin season ticket sales were off by 9,000—down to 69,000 from 78,000.

They are not suffering alone. Season sales for the transplanted New York Giants, playing their home games at the Yale Bowl in New Haven, Conn. while Yankee Stadium is renovated, were down 18,000. Early games against the Washington Redskins and New England Patriots were 10,000, and 12,000 short of 1973.

The Dallas Cowboys, perennial title threats, drew only 46,353 against the Giants, lowest for the regular season since 1965. Houston played its first three home games before anemic crowds of 25,317, 28,538 and 30,049.

"The WFL didn't hurt us, but the strike did," said Bud Adams, owner of the Oilers. "I think a lot of fans were turned off by the players' strike."

Tex Schramm, president of the Cowboys, said: "People resent management because they think it didn't do enough to keep the players happy. Where fans became embittered with the players, that feeling didn't turn off when the strike was over."

"Some of the bloom appears to be off the rose," added owner Wellington Mara of the Giants, "but the jury is still out. I want to wait the end of the season for final judgment. But it seems that some of the fan interest has been eroded."

Some observers are blaming the strike and WFL player raids with the wave of early season upsets. The Cowboys were lackluster in losing to the Philadelphia Eagles and Giants. Upset by the Patriots in their opening game, the Dolphins barely pulled out a cliffhanger over San Diego and were lucky not to be 0-3 after their first three games.

The Los Angeles Rams, favorites to go all the way this year, were upended by the young Patriots and the highly rated Pittsburgh Steelers were manhandled by Oakland.

"Before the season started I was apprehensive about three things," said Robbie, the crusty lawyer who is managing general partner of the Dolphins. "They were the general economic, Congress' intervention on the blackout and the impact on both the players and the fans as a result of the strike."

"It is impossible to measure the damage done to fan interest by the strike, but I feel there is a direct cause-result relationship in both the early wave of upsets and in the reduction of ticket sales."

Robbie was quick to say he did not feel either the strike or the preseason raids by the WFL—which gave a lame duck status to such Dolphin stars as Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield, signed as a package for $3.5 million—could be blamed for the Dolphins' uncharacteristically shaky start.

He said he saw no evidence of animosities having arisen on the Dolphins between player factions who supported the theory.

Robbie, whose relations with Shula were strained by a shouting argument at the team's post-Super Bowl banquet, said he could understand some fan disenchantment.

"You have grown men going to the games in sweat shirts with numbers '39' and '21' on them," he said. "To them, players are heroes. When they see these heroes involved in things like strikes and jumps to rival leagues, they get fed up and they are not quick to forgive."

"Dallas, on the other hand, could be hurt both ways—by the WFL and by the strike," he said.

Miami Coach Don Shula backed Robbie on this point: "Before the season, I called the team together and laid everything on the line. This is a team of free thinkers and free spirits. I appealed to their intelligence and not their emotions. They realize they have a chance to make football his- tory."

Alternative School Idea

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI) — One of the newer methods of dealing with the school dropout problem is the "alternative school," a program that isolates underachievers, disciplinary problems, and unmotivated students and places them in special remedial education classes.

The alternative school puts 10 to 15 such students in classrooms where fundamentals, grammar and mathematics are stressed. The small class size permits a teacher to devote more time to each student's learning disability.

The object of the school is to give potential dropouts an intensive review of basic courses before the student fails so far behind his classmates that it would be virtually impossible to catch up.

One such alternative school is Newark's "Project Link," a private, non-sectarian remedial center opened five years ago by the Catholic Sisters of St. Dominic in Caldwell.

Starting with 46 students in September, 1969, the program today has 110 students and a waiting list of hundreds more.

Of the original 46 students, all but four are still in high school. Sister Anne Marie, principal of Project Link, said the program admits seventh and eighth graders who have been identified as potential dropouts by school authorities.

The school's Parent-Teacher Association screens applicants and selects the 55 students to be admitted each fall.

"I'd estimate our success rate at 90 per cent," Sister Anne Marie said. "We'd like to expand by including sixth graders in the program, but right now funding is a problem."

The school, a building in Newark's Central Ward, has an annual current budget of $78,000, which includes salaries for two teachers, three alternate teachers, supplies, rent and equipment.

A number of Newark's businesses, including Prudential Life Insurance, Public Service Electric & Gas and Western Electric, have offered both funds and volunteer manpower to the program.

"Prudential has a program in which several of our students go down there once a week and are tutored in such careers as computers, public relations and art work," Sister Anne Marie said.

This supplements classroom learning, she said, and provides students with exposure to the business world.

Aside from the business volunteers, who last year repaired and painted the school in their free time, parents of the students also participate in Project Link.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something that you will commit yourself to casually will be taken seriously by another. Complications are likely to ensue.

After his Stayman three-club bid had produced a three-diamond rebid by South, North jumped to six notrump to deny a four-card major. This bid represented the full strength of his hand plus a trifle more. With 3-3 breaks in hearts and clubs, South could run off with all the tricks.

South was not a believer in Santa Claus and wanted to give himself the best possible play for 12 tricks. He could count 11 winners and decided to develop a squeeze in case either opponent had both red suits stopped.

He ducked the first trick. This maneuver is known as rectifying the count. South still had his 11 sure winners. He was trying for 12.

After that start it was all over for the defense. South won the second diamond cashed his ace-queen of spades; entered dummy with a high club and cashed the jack of spades. That play squeezed East. He had to chuck a club or a heart and either discard gave South the slam.

You should note that if South won the first trick the squeeze could never develop, since East could never be forced to throw either a heart or a club.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Bats are among the few mammals capable of flying. Bats use a process called echolocation which aids their orientation in the dark. The World Almanac notes. While flying, they emit supersonic sounds from the nose and mouth which are reflected from an object back to their sensory apparatus. Bats have sight but it is useless in the dark.

Kissinger Heads for the Middle East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At his departure, Kissinger said he was relieved that he was making the trip for Ford instead of his predecessor. Although he had always contended that former President Richard Nixon's Water-gate troubles had not hampered his diplomacy, Kissinger said: "This is the first time in a long time that one can go on these missions with an America that is at peace with itself."

Kissinger and Ford drove to the air base following a state dinner for Edward Gierk, head of the Polish Communist party. The President was still in his tuxedo. Just before the plane took off, Ford and Kissinger stepped inside and apparently talked for a few minutes. "I just came out with all the cabinet members and others in the administration to express our appreciation to the Secretary of State for going on this very important mission, and to indicate my full support and support of the administration for these . . . tremendous efforts to bring peace in an area of the world that has been so volatile, so controversial that it is important for the world as well as the countries involved that the maximum effort for peace be made," Ford said. "We wish you the very best, Henry."

Expressing his appreciation for Ford's gesture, Kissinger said "The problem of contributing to peace in the Middle East is a very complicated one and as I've had occasion to say before, it is a source of pride to all Americans that is the United States that all parties trust and that will attempt to make some progress."

Rocky's Gifts... Explanation Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Con-State Henry A. Kissinger five gressional leaders want a full explanation of the more than $800,000 in gifts Nelson A. Rockefeller gave his aides, but they said the disclosure proba-bly won't impair his confirma-tion as vice president. Senate Rules Committee members, who meet Friday to study Rockefeller's financial reports, said they were not alarmed at the gifts—including $550,000 to one former chief aide and $50,000 to Secretary of

"I see nothing which alarms me yet," said Sen. James Allen, D-Ala. "I guess a fellow is entitled to give his money away to whomever he wants." Both Allen and Byrd said they wanted to hear a complete explanation of the Rockefeller gifts. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said the disclo-sures "could well reopen hearings" on the nomination. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said Rockefeller should be recalled and questioned about the gifts. "The question of personal gifts to political figures raises a grave question of propriety," Helms said. However, Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott said he has "seen nothing which has impaired the integrity of Governor Rockefeller in any way." Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, D-Iowa, a member of the Judiciary Committee which is

Wheat Sale Hearings Continue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thomas Enders, appearing with the Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz Tuesday before the Senate Agriculture Committee, said the Soviet Union had been negotiating for as much as 6 million tons of wheat and grain before last weekend's sale of 3.4 million tons was postponed under White House pressure. He also said one of Treasury Secretary William Simon's as-signments when he goes to Moscow later this week will be to establish some ground rules on how much grain the Soviet Union can buy from exporters in the United States. Assistant Secretary of State requires large export contracts to receive prior U.S. govern-ment approval. Butz also said the United States has imposed no ban on exports to any country—something he strongly op-posed—except where trade is pro-hibited by law. He said the White House was called in because the deal had "diplomatic overtones." The secretary said he was certain the new export report-ing policy instituted Monday will guarantee no repeats. It also studying the Rockefeller nomination, called on the former New York governor to make an immediate public disclosure of all gifts he had given.
